SENATE RESTORES ITEM

Postoffice Appropriation Bill
Subject of Much Discussion in Congress

Washington, D. C.—American steamship lines which have been struggling ever since the war for some form of government aid now are in danger of losing that which they had already thought secure and on which they had expanded their sailings and routes,
namely ocean mail contracts.The house appropriations committee has denied the item involving about one million dollars but the senate appropriations committee put it back and the senate approved the action, so that the postoffice appropriation bill now in conference will be the subject of considerable discussion.The postoffice department, the treasury, the shipping board, the department of commerce and the director of the budget with the full approval of President Coolidge, recommended the present plan as in line with the merchant marine act of 1920. Ocean mail contracts are nothing new, having been let for generations. The rates per statute mile for the outward voyage vary but the highest rate of three dollars per mile is one dollar less than the maximum paid under the ocean mail service act of 1891. The total compensation, which the American lines would receive, represents an increase over the rates of the British but, of course, is not as high as the government paid under the 1891 law.THREE FORMS OF AID
The American steamship lines say that when congress failed to pass a ship subsidy bill, three forms of aid or encouragement were offered. The first was extension of the coastwise law
to the Philippines, preferential railroad rates on products booked through on American vessels from American railroads, and mail contracts. For reasons

ROUTES REBEL FORCEAli Attrache Escapes Capture
Only Through Marvellous
Speed of HorseBeirut, Syria.—(P)—French cavalry have routed a strong contingent of insurrectionists who left 25 dead on the field of battle, 100 horses and much booty.The uprising was in command of Ali Attrache, a close friend of the Druse chieftain, Sultan Attrache, who led last year's uprising. Ali Attrache escaped capture only through the marvellous speed of his horse.The outbreak in Syria, led by Sultan Attrache, was of serious concern to the French authorities, who fear a continuous harassing movement being carried on over a period of many months.Last August the French headquarters in Syria reported that the submission of the insurrectionists to French authorities was growing approaching and that several of the principal leaders in the revolt had made peace with the Damascus authorities."DON'T MUZZLE PRESS," KING ADVISES COOLIDGEWashington, D. C.—(P)—President
Coolidge was criticized in the senate
Tuesday by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, for what he termed "A lecture to the press for its criticism of the president's foreign policy." The senator said he had been unable to determine what this country's foreign policy is but "it is not a wise thing to attempt to muzzle the press or retard its discussion of the foreign policy."The reference was to a recent White house utterance in which the president was represented as feeling that the government was being handicapped in foreign affairs because of the attitude of some American newspapers.TEXAS GOVERNOR PARDON LIST CLIMBS TO 3,005Austin, Texas.—(P)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's acts of clemency Tuesday reached 3,005, with the granting of 26 full pardons. Governor Ferguson has granted 825 full pardons
and 815 conditional pardons, the remaining clemency including paroles, commutations and similar acts.Among those pardoned Tuesday is E. B. May of Houston, given 5 to 10 years for wife murder. The governor said May had served the state four years as "a good blacksmith doing as much work as an average convict would do in 15 years," and that his wife's death was an accident.

claimant of the presidency of Nicaragua, in opposition to the Diaz government recognized by the United States. This is a hitherto unpublished portrait of the man now causing most worry to Latin-American diplomats.DENY RIGHT OF U. S. TO PROBE
VOTE IN MAINEGould Counsel Says Body Puts Too Broad Construction on PowersWashington, D. C.—(P)—Counsel for Senator Gould, Republican, Maine, Tuesday challenged the authority of the senate to investigate charges growing out of an alleged payment to a Canadian official in connection with a railroad contract four years ago.In ordering the investigation, the senate relied on the constitutional provision making it the duty of the
"qualifications of its own members."
Counsel for the new Maine senator contended, however, that in going into an incident which occurred long ago
and which had been widely discussed during the campaign resulting in Gould's election, the senate was putting too broad a construction on its constitutional powers.The issue will be hotly contested in view of its possible
application to the prospective contests over the seating of Senators-elect Smith of Illinois, and Vane of Pennsylvania who are charged with excessive campaign expenditures.The authority of his colleagues was laid before an elections sub-committee as soon as it convened Tuesday to begin hearings.Frederick W. Hinckley, chief counsel for Senator Gould, argued before the committee that the constitution itself had covered the field of "qualifications" by prescribing that a senator must be 30 years of age, nine years a citizen of the United States and an inhabitant of the state he represents.TWO FISHERMEN ESCAPE FROM DRIFTING FLOESault Ste. Marie.—(P)—Two lone fishermen, Alex McLean and C. E.
Draper, saved by chance from an ice
floe in Lake Superior, told Tuesday
how they drifted in the bitter cold for two days and three nights with their pony and cart for warmth and shelter, and frozen herring as their only food.The floe was washed ashore at Isle Paradise and the lighthouse keeper there brought them back to Round Island. The men were taking in their nests when the ice, eight inches thick, broke off and drifted away. The floe couched twice in the latter cold drifted away the first time before the men, numb with cold, could crawl
ashore.DUKE ESTATE VALUED AT MORE THAN $9 MILLIONSomerville, N. J.—(P)—The estate of the late James B. Duke, tobacco manufacturer and philanthropist, was worth $9,704,899.88, at his death, according to a petition for first accounting filed in surrogate court Tuesday. Money paid out for taxes, administration expense, legacies and trust funds since Mr. Duke's death in 1925, cut the value to $5,345,173.76.TORTURE WOMAN TO LOCATE HER JEWELSChicago.—(P)—Trapped in her apartment, Mrs. Radunas was tortured for four hours by three youthful bandits
before she yielded and told them where to find $1,000 in money and jewelry. They bound and gagged their victim, beat her and inflicted burns with lighted cigarettes as part of the torture.

PINCHOT HITS MELLON IN VARE RACE

VOTE BOUGHT AND STOLEN,
HE DECLARESMellon and Mitten Machines Spread Shadow Over Community, Governor SaysHarrisburg, Pa.—(P)—Charges that Senator-elect William S. Vare's Republican nomination for that office
was "partly bought and partly stolen," were made by Governor Pinchot in his message to Pennsylvania legislature Tuesday.Governor Pinchot said that he had refused to support Vare in the elections for that reason. Governor Pin-chot opposed Senator-elect Vare and Senator George Wharton Pepper, in the primaries, Vare gaining the nomination by votes rolled up in Philadelphia, his home.Two "political machines" the "Mellon machine in Pittsburgh and the Mit-ton machine in Philadelphia," he said,
"spread their black, hawk-like shadow over the community borne upon the wings of eminent respectability and organized crime." The governor described one wing of the political machines as "men who depend for their living and their power on liquor, crime and vice.""The other," he said, "consists of men who are so tied in with the business organization of the magnates that they profit from the existence of the machine; partly of business men, who are held in fear because of their loans and credits; partly of the generally decent citizens, who follow the magnates because they assume that if a man is rich enough he can do no wrong; and partly of such of the ostensibly respectable elements of the community as are willing to shut their eyes and make common cause with criminals, vote thieves, dive-keepers, gangsters and harlots, because of the social financial eminence of the Mellon name."TREASURY SURPLUS IS SET AT $218,279,937Washington, D. C.—(P)—The treasury ended the first half of its fiscal year with a surplus of $218,279, 937, compared with $125,598,300 for the same period a year ago. Although calculations based on the figures for the first six months would show a surplus of almost $500,000,000 for the year, Under Secretary Vinson declared the surplus would be about $383,000,000. He said the margin for the first six months was cut Monday,
by the appropriation of $125,000,000
to the fund for veterans' adjusted service certificates.JANESVILLE MAN MAY BE LA CROSSE NORMAL HEADMadison.—(P)—Frank O. Holt, city superintendent of schools at Janesville and former president of the Wisconsin State Teachers association, has been offered the presidency of La Crosse Normal school, it was reported here Tuesday by persons in contact with the board of normal school regents.According to the report, Mr. Holt will be asked to succeed Dr. Ernest Ashton Smith, former president, who died several days ago at Elgin, Ohio,
following his resignation to the board of regents. Mr. Holt has been superintendent at Janesville for several years.THERE NOW, GIRLS! YOU ARE MOPS, VALENTINESNew York.—(P)—The American girl has been likened to many wondrous things, but perhaps never before has she been called either a comic valentine or a cedar mop. Beauty shop owners dug themselves in at the Waldorf Tuesday in preparation for the annual campaign against bobbed hair and considerable fancy language was passed about the short-haired ladies.It was the annual convention and exhibition of the shops (or shoppes) owners, and solemn resolutions were solemnly passed setting the point once and for all that long hair can be dressed more becomingly and with more individuality than short. Bobbing, it was decreed, is neither practical nor necessary to beauty and should be abolished, forthwith and forever more.AMERICAN TARS LAND TO AID BRITISH IN CHINAHankow.—(P)—Hankow was quiet Tuesday, following the disturbance in which British marines held at bay several thousand Chinese coolies who attacked the British concession Monday.
American sailors were landed during the evening at the request of British authorities but were held at headquarters and not used. The American bluejackets returned to their ship
later.Banks Won't Make Loans; Vets Appeal To CongressRefusal to Accept Bonus Certificates Causes Soldiers to Seek Nation's AidWashington, D. C.—(P)—Widespread refusal of banks to make loans on soldiers' bonus certificates, which acquired a loan value for the first time Jan. 1, has stirred up a small-sized rebellion in veteran ranks and plans for relief have already been laid on the doorstep of congress.Meanwhile the treasury, with $400,- 000,000 in its adjusted service certificate funds as a pledge to certificates having a loan value of approximately $200,000,000 is confident that banking institutions will make such loans when they realize there is no chance for them to lose these transactions.Reports to the veterans bureau which, under the law, must make all unpaid loans good to the banks, indicate that about one-half of the banks are accepting the insurance bonus certificates as security for loans while news dispatches from large cities show
a tendency on the part of the financial houses to treat only those veterans who have banking relations with them.Secretary Mellon and Director Hines of the veterans bureau have called attention to the sound security represented in the certificates, but this has not deterred the veterans of foreign wars from taking up the cudgel for direct loans by the veterans bureau.
Edward S. Bechtelheim, who suggested the plan to Chairman Johnson of the house veterans committee, was referred to the ways and means committee of that body.CONFESSES MURDER OF MOTHER-IN-LAWNew York Man Is Trapped by Coat Button and Lock of His HairMineola, N. Y.—(P)—Trapped by a coat button and a lock of his hair, Harold E. Webster, 26, Tuesday confessed the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Galloway, 45, who was found Monday with her skull crushed at the home of another son-in-law, Dr. Dell C. Bassett, at Hemp-stead.The confession was announced by District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, after Webster had been questioned for six hours at the office of the district attorney here.District Attorney Edwards said Webster confessed he had killed his mother-in-law because she had threatened to cause her daughter, Mrs.
Blanche Webster, to start divorce proceedings.Mrs. Webster, held in an adjoining room while her husband faced the prosecutor, collapsed when told of her husband's confession.A few strands of hair of a man's head, torn out by the roots, and a button found in the still warm hand of the dead woman led to the arrest of Webster on a charge of first degree murder.COOLIDGE RESUMES
WHITE HOUSE MEETSWashington, D. C.—(P)—President Coolidge invited a bi-partisan gathering to breakfast Tuesday for the summit of the White House early morning conference which have been the order since the convening of congress.The guest list includes Senators Blease, South Carolina, and Caraway, Arkansas, Democrats; Cameron, Arizona, and Egan, Kentucky, Republicans; Representatives Garrett, Tennessee, the Democratic floor leader;
McLaughlin, Nebraska; Cramton, Michigan, Leatherwood, Utah; Dempsiey, New York; Burton, Ohio, and

Solve Mystery Of VenusChicago.—(P)—Infra-red photographic apparatus, with which they hope to penetrate the clouds for a closeup of Venus, has been completed by University of Chicago scientist at the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay. The Jensen vapor masses hanging over the plane surface have long been considered impenetrable, but the Yerkes
staff is optimistic over chances of success with the infra-red filter which last summer yielded the best views of Mars so far obtained by man.While those clouds have baffled scientists, Prof. E. B. Frost, director at the observatory, attaches much importance to them, for he thinks their presence may have material bearing on the existence of life on Venus. Life is much more likely to be found on Venus than on Mars, Professor Frost believes, but Venus is so near the sun,
he said, that the heat would preventBELGIAN SAILORS ARE SUSPECTED OF SMUGGLING IN U. S.New York.—(P)—Existence of an international smuggling ring, using sailors on vessels leaving Belgian ports to smuggle large quantities of diamonds into this country, is suspected by customs officials, who have confiscated
$125,000 in gems in the socks of a Belgian seaman.Franz Tielemans on the Red Star liner Pennland, had the stones aggregating about 500
carats in two packages on concealed in each sock. He was arrested.He told treasury agents he did not know the destination of the diamonds and said he merely had been instructed to deliver them to a man with a red handkerchief at an uptown street intersection after he had replied properly to a password.BELIEVE DEAD
BANK BANDIT
WAS BADGERTrapped by Vigilantes After Robbing Bank of $1,000,
Man Kills SelfPeoria, Ill.—(P)—Leaving the prostitute business of running an automobile
agency, ostensibly for a hunting trip,
a man believed to be Henry Smith of Chippewa Falls, turned up in Secor, Ill., to enter a career of crime as a bank robber only to end it a few minutes later with his own pistol. The robber held up the First National bank of Secor, Monday and escaped from the building with $1,000, after herding four employees in the vault.His failure to lock the vault securely permitted the prisoners to escape and give the alarm soon after he jumped into an automobile and sped away.A posse of vigilantes and town guards formed at El Paso, near Secor, and the robber, discovering the ambush, slowed down his car, drew his pistol and shot himself through the head. All of the loot was recovered.FIND HUNTING LICENSE In the dead robber's clothes was found a hunting license issued to Henry Smith of Chippewa Falls, and the man's description tallied with that given on the receipt. The automobile was of the same make as Smith had in his Chippewa Falls agency. Two sets of license plates were found in the machine, and the police were checking on these with Wisconsin authorities.According to word from the Wisconsin city, Smith left Chippewa Falls
last week, leaving word with his wife and his business partner that he was going to Rice Lake, 50 miles north, on a hunting trip. That was the last heard of him. The Smiths have one baby.NORTHSHORE TRAIN IS DERAILED BY SWITCHKenosha.—(P)—One man was slightly injured, with several passengers shaken up Monday night, when a Chicago bound Chicago Northshore and Milwaukee Electric railroad train was derailed by an open switch just north of the city. The train was slowing down for the station when it took the switch. Three cars left the rails.
Jerome Melacker of the quartermaster's department, Fort Sheridan, was injured.BEGIN TO BOOM AL SMITH FOR WHITE HOUSERepublican Leader Belittles
New York Governor;
Smith Forces RallyNew York.—(P)—Presidential politics
continued Tuesday to create somewhat of a stir. Reports that some supporters of Al Smith were making an active drive for delegates to the Democratic convention were followed by a Republican spokesman's statement be-littling Smith's power as a vote-getter.This statement came from Charles D.
Hilles, Republican state chairman and national vice chairman."The New York World, ardent supporter of Governor Smith, said that the governor's closest friends were frowning upon efforts to get his boom off to an early start regarding such steps
as ill-advised and likely to hurt his chances."William Allen White of Emporia, Kansas, at a public address compared Smith and Coolidge. "Personally I consider that Al Smith represents the biggest, best, keenest and clearest brain in American public life Tuesday—and I am a Republican," he said.COOLIDGE A "MYSTIC" Mr. White spoke on "Coolidge and the Changing Times." He declared President Coolidge to be "as much of a mystic as any other new Englander ever has been." He said that he thought the president to be the typical political leader of the new era in which prosperity is the chief end of mankind.Hilles, in a statement, said that Governor Smith carried the state
by 150,000 less votes last November than in 1922, the last of year, and predicted a Republican sweep in New York and the nation in 1928.SMITH MAJORITY LESS
"While I appreciate the personal popularity of Governor Smith," he said, "and while I admit that he has
as head of his ticket carried two United States Senators with him, it is indisputably true that his majority is less than it was and that he was unable in the last election to carry either branch of the legislature or of the entire state ticket.""Everyone seems to have understood that Governor Smith would not have accepted the governorship except to utilize it as a stepping stone."Asserting that Smith has been an expensive governor and for that reason alone many would not support him for the presidency, Mr. Hilles said he would like to hear the governor express his stand on the league of nations and the tariff.

"BUNK" SAYS AL

Albany.—(P)—Governor Smith commented in characteristic Smith fashion Tuesday on the statement of Charles D. Hilles, national Republican committee man from New York and chairman of the executive committee of the Republican state committee,
regarding the governor's political future."Every new chairman of the executive committee of the Republican state committee, is entitled to a pipe-dream
as early in January as he can get it,"
the governor said."Bunk, the same old bunk" was the governor's comment on Mr. Hilles' assertion that Governor Smith's fourth term was a stepping stone for the Presidential nomination.SUMATRA REBELLION TAKES 3 MORE LIVESPadang, Sumatra.—(P)—Troops have been sent from Fort DeKock to the scene of the rebellion in the Siloenggang district, on the west coast of Sumatra. The trouble, attributed to natives described as Communists, is said to be similar to the unsuccessful rebellion in Java in November. It started Sunday night when armed bandits attacked government offices.In the first outbreaks a native chief and a Dutch army officer were killed and two native soldiers wounded, while about 30 rebels were killed. Advanced Tuesday say three more men have been killed while opposing the insurrectionists.The postmaster for Siloenggang was slain, and the postoffice is closed, interrupting the dispatch of mails in the district. Local train service also has been suspended, and other transportation is impossible. The troops from Fort DeKock will endeavor to restore communications.FOURTH MRS. EARLE IS GRANTED DECREELos Angeles, Calif.—(P)—Another chapter in the stormy marital life of Ferdinand Pinney Earle, artist motion picture director and poet, was closed Tuesday with the granting of a divorce here Monday to harlotte Kristine Earle, his fourth wife. Mrs.
Earle accused her husband of beating her and on one occasion stabbing her with a pair of scissors in a fit of rage.EDISON'S FOUR HOUR
SLEEP REPORT MYTH,
PHYSICIAN STATESPittsburg.—(P)—Thomas A. Edison does, if he doesn't get eight hours of sleep. So says Dr. H. M.
Johnson of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, whose experiments on the subj. of sleep have convinced him that toxins generated by muscular fatigue act as stimulants to the nervous system, including the brain."Mr. Edison sleeps eight hours a night or more," Dr. Johnson said, terming a myth the story that Edison sleeps only four hours
each night. "When he doesn't get that much he does in his chair the next day. That I think has been a standing joke among his associates. Harvey Firestone always gets a good laugh out of it."BRITTEN WILL PUSH BILL TO ELEVATE GUNSBritish Naval Ships Outrange
American Craft, Admiral
Block SaysWashington, D. C.—(P)—After listening to testimony that British naval ships materially outrange American war craft, Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois, a member of the house naval committee, announced Tuesday he would reintroduce his bill
for elevation of guns on American battleships.The committee was told by Rear Admiral Block, naval ordinance chief,
that at 23,000 yards the British could array 20 ships against 10 of this country, that at 20,000 yards 12 American ships would oppose 20 British, and that the ratio would be 18 against 20 at 21,000 yards. Britten's bill would provide for elevation of the guns on 11 capital ships.The committee decided to include in a pending measure for modernization of the battleships Oklahoma and Nevada a provision for elevation of their guns.WANTS WORLD TO KNOW
In requesting inclusion of the provision, Chairman Butler said he "wanted the world to know we are going to do this. We should let the country know exactly what we propose to do he said. "I regret this must be done, but it is necessary for the protection of the country."So famous case of William Mitchell, air ace who resigned after his court martial for insubordination, was injected into the committee hearing
when Representative McClintock, Oklahoma, told naval officers present that Mitchell "showed up this navy and army." He contended that "so long as we have an adequate air force, we are safe from invasion."Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board, told the senate committee that if $15,000,000 were offered for the United States and American merchant lines, he would be in favor of selling.ADMITS ATTEMPT TO "FIX" GRAND JURYGovernment on Trail of $50,- 000 Bribe Charge in Chicago Court CaseChicago.—(P)—Confession of a plot to "fix" the federal grand jury which recently cleared former Sheriff Peter V. Hoffman and seven others in the Cook-co Jail scandal, put the government on the trail Tuesday of a bribe fund alleged to have totalled $50, 000 or more.After 15 hours questioning of three men under arrest, Hope Thompson, assistant district attorney, announced
he had "a definite notion as to where the big bank roll came from."Deputy Marshal Thomas Smith, who voluntarily revealed the alleged plot, said he had refused a $15,000
bribe to aid in placing Joseph Plunkett
on the jury which acquitted Hoffmann and his co-defendants. Smith did not go through with his part in the transaction, and Plunkett, one of the three under arrest, did not get on the jury.WOMEN PREACHERS ARE GAINING IN NUMBERChicago.—(P)—An increase in the number of women ordained as local preachers, deacons and elders of the Methodist Episcopal churches is shown in a report published in the 1927 year book of the church. Eleven women were ordained as elders, seven as deacons and four as local preachers,
a total of 32. Oklahoma conference ordained four, and Michigan conference, three.LETTERS FROM

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Dry law arrests in the national capitol during 1926 were listed at 19,209 Tuesday by representative Cochran, Democrat, Missouri, who said in a statement that the figures were supplied by police officers. He said that of the 19,209, 767 were arrested for intoxication on the streets, including those arrested for driving while intoxicated.Washington, D. C.—(P)—The post-holiday outbreak of prohibition agitation again overran both senate and house Tuesday.Within a few minutes after it convened, the senate adopted the resolution of Senator Edwards, Democrat,
New Jersey, calling upon Secretary Mellon for any correspondence between the treasury and the Anti-Saloon league with respect to the poisoning of industrial alcohol.At the same time the house, amid loud applause, was listening to a speech in which Representative Underhill, Republican, Massachusetts, declined the statement of Representative

gressmen "drink and drink to excess."RESOLUTION GOES THROUGH

DRUGGISTS KICK ON PRESENT LAW ON WHISKY SALES

Mellon Fathers Bill to Create National Medicinal Whisky Corporation

BY RASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington, D. C.—The Mellon-Andrews Green plan to handle medicinal liquor through a corporation will face a rocky road to enactment unless it is amended in a number of particulars, it seemed certain today as Congress got into session.

The bill, written by the Treasury Department and introduced by Representative William R. Green, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and automatically referred back to that committee, will receive consideration within a few days.

Meanwhile, it became known, the Treasury Department is faced with a revolt of druggists against the present method of handling liquor.

New York and Wisconsin pharmaceutical associations have strongly protested against present distribution methods and the New York association is strongly backing its petition to Congress to abolish drug store whiskey distribution. The Treasury, however, hoped that the legislation creating the "Medical Spirits Corporation" would be such in its completed form that the pharmaceutical associations would withdraw their objections.

Strong protests have been lodged with Congress and the Treasury because of the fact that physicians are pinned down to a specific amount of whiskey to be used in treating cases and because of actions of enforcement officers to trip druggists on purely technical matters.

Adolph E. Haise, president of the Wisconsin Association, openly denounced the proposed act as responsible for the present predicament in which he says the druggists now find themselves.

"The dry law is inconsistent," Mr. Haise said, "as it forces us to handle liquor as the original channel for distribution, and while the government promises us support, its agents continually seek to trip us up for mistakes that are only human and of a technical nature."

Another druggist said that the law makes saloon keepers of druggists and promises of illicit gains lure undesirable into the profession.

Many druggists have openly declared that 90 per cent of the liquor sold on a physician's prescription is not used for medicinal purposes.

Representative Green hopes to aid the effective control of such spirits with the bill providing for the creating of "The Medical Spirits Corporation," with indications that it may be passed.

Representative Emanuel Celler, Democrat, New York, wet, predicted the passage of the bill offered by Representative Green. The New York member said that he will appear before the committee and offer some amendments, but believes generally that the bill is satisfactory.

The proposed corporation is "for the purpose of conserving the revenues from medicinal spirits, providing for the effective control of such spirits, and regulating the disposal of intoxicating liquors for medicinal uses so as to prevent evasions of the law against the traffic in such liquors for beverage purposes, and for the purpose of preventing the adulteration and misbranding of medicinal spirits, of protecting the public in purchases of distilled spirits for medicinal and non beverage purposes, and of preventing the evasion of taxes, nine individuals to be appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury as incorporators and as the original directors are hereby incorporated as a Federal corporation, and declared to be a body corporate."

The chairman of the club program committee will be in charge of the supper.

CAN'T DECIDE AS TO
"WHO SHOT THE WOLF"

Madison—(P)—A secretary of state's office was informed Monday by the attorney general's office that it could not decide as to "who shot the wolf" when paying bounty claims.

Two hunters in Buffalo-co pursued a wolf with their dogs. A third hunter shot the animal and the two original hunters claimed the wolf as their own. When the third hunter applied for the $30 bounty, a contest for the first two attempted to prevent payment.

Approve Plans For New $100,000 Catholic Church In Appleton

Plans for the new Roman Catholic combined church and school to be constructed at the corner of N. Durkee and E. Summer-st have been completed by Edward A. Wettengel, architect, and have been approved by the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin and building operations are to be started as soon as weather conditions permit the breaking of ground, according to Father John of St. Joseph parish, who has been placed in charge of the campaign for the new church by Bishop Paul H. Rhode of the Green Bay diocese. The church is to be completed by Sept. 1, 1927.

Father John will continue in charge of the work until the arrival of the Rev. M. A. Hauch, who was appointed pastor of the new parish by Bishop Rhode. Father Hauch is stationed at Harrison, in charge of the parish there and he probably will arrive in Appleton to take charge of the new parish late in January. He formerly was assistant pastor at St. Mary's church here.

The cost of the new combined church and school building will be approximately $100,000. Plans and specifications are being furnished to contractors by Mr. Wettengel.

The new building will be 112 feet by 62 feet wide and it is to be two stories high with a basement. The church will be located on the second floor and six large classrooms, which will be able to accommodate approximately 400 children will be on the second floor. The basement will house the heating plant and an auditorium 60 by 62 feet wide. The building is so designed, according to Father John, that any time in the future when conditions demand, it can be converted entirely for school purposes. Enough property is owned on Wisconsin-ave, adjoining the new church to provide for the erection of another building.

The new church is to be known as "St. Teresa of the Little Flower of Jesus." This will be the first church in the Green Bay diocese dedicated to this saint. The church is to be built of brick with stone trimmings and adopted to modern Italian Romanesque style and byzantine and modern influence. It is to be a fireproof building. The reason for building the new church, according to Father John, is because the present parishes cannot accommodate the Catholic population of the city. The present Catholic schools, he explained, were too far away from the section of the city in which the new church and school is to be built.

The new congregation will include all of the territory bounded by N. Richmond-st on the west; Atlantic-st on the south; Ballard-rd on the east and the southern boundary of St. Edward parish of Mackville. Approximately 300 families are included in this territory at the present time, according to Father John.

Funds for the new church have been raised by families in the new parish and through the aid of St. Mary and St. Joseph congregations. St. Joseph congregation has raised $30,000; St. Mary, $15,000; the families in the new parish, $15,000.

Members of the laymen's committee who are assisting Father John in his work are Thomas Flanagan, chairman, Robert Monahan, financial secretary, R. M. Connelly, Judge Theodore Berg, Edward Campshire, Dr. William Keller, Mrs. John Stoeffer, Mrs. William Keller, Mrs. Robert Strassburger, Mrs. John Fries and Mrs. Pierce.

CALENDAR OF MUNICIPAL COURT UNUSUALLY HEAVY
One of the heaviest municipal court calendars in a long time is being faced in the next two months by Judge Theodore Berg. Besides the routine court cases and those matters which will come up in the lower branch of the court, the dates of approximately 15 jury cases already have been fixed between now and the end of February at an average of about two jury cases every week.

NEW EXECUTIVES PLUNGE INTO WORK

Opening of Legislative Session Is First Big Task Before Zimmerman

Madison—(P)—With the formalities of inauguration in the background, newly elected officials of Wisconsin's state government rolled up their desks and went to work Tuesday.

Preparations for the opening of the 1927 legislature immediately confronted the officials, since only a little more than a week remains before the two houses open. The sessions are scheduled to get under way January 12.

For the first time in six years a new personnel appeared in the governor's office where Governor Fred R. Zimmerman took control. The move, from one end of the second floor corridor to the opposite in the state capitol, also found Louis Nagler, private secretary, and Miss Ida Kissel, executive secretary, assisting the new governor. Both had worked with Governor Zimmerman during his term as secretary of state.

To State Treasurer Solomon Levitan the occasion was merely a duplication of a regular day's routine, for his inauguration ratified his reelection to the post which he has held for two preceding terms. The same was true of Lieutenant Governor Henry A. Heller who has served one term in the office.

New environments surrounded Secretary of State Theodore Dammann and Attorney General John W. Reynolds. Neither of the two men had previously held official places in the government of the state government at Madison.

Last night the marbled floors of the capitol were traversed by hundreds of dancers as the concluding function of inaugural day. Informality characterized the entire program, which followed receptions by the newly elected officials. Receptions and concerts were also held in the afternoon.

With the advent of Governor Zimmerman into the chief executive's chair a new faction in Wisconsin Republicanism assumed control of state affairs. The faction which controlled the governor's office for the past six years was represented in the four other administrative officials inaugurated with Governor Zimmerman.

TAXPAYERS POUR $15,000 MORE INTO CITY TREASURY
Approximately $15,000 of the city's taxes were collected Monday, according to Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer. This added to $45,000 which was collected Thursday, Friday and Saturday makes a total of $60,000 of the $121,553.78 to be collected.

"It is a pleasure to remember that they can save much time for themselves and a lot of trouble for the workers in my office if they bring their 1925 tax receipts along. We must have a description of the property and these receipts contain the information we need," Mr. Bachman said.

Dog licenses must be purchased at this time also although up to noon Tuesday only 35 dog owners had secured permits, according to Mr. Bachman.

2 HOBOES ORDERED OUT OF APPLETON BY POLICE

The police department is perfectly willing to give a man a night's lodging at the station. Even two and three successive nights in the station are sometimes permitted, unless the privilege is abused.

Two men, evidently hoboes, asked for and were granted lodging at the station Sunday night. Monday night they returned again, but this time it was not through their own choice.

They were picked up on the streets by a police officer in an apparently intoxicated condition, and given the opportunity of sobering up in quarters where they would not bother anyone else.

Their stay here was ended Tuesday morning when the police ordered them to leave Appleton.

WITNESS IS ILL AND CASE IS ADJOURNED

The case of the Little Chute Lumber Co. against Joseph Garvey of Freedom, scheduled to be heard Tuesday morning in municipal court before a jury, was adjourned because of the illness of one of the principal witnesses. The mother of the defendant was unable to appear.

KIMBERLY-CLARK MILL MAINTAINS EMPLOYEE LIBRARY

Volumes Are Entirely of Technical Nature, and Cover Paper Making

The Kimberly-Clark company mill is one of the four mills in the country that has a circulating library for its employees.

The library is entirely of a technical nature made up of bound volumes of trade magazines and scientific books on chemistry, physics and metallurgy, used largely for research work also are included. Two files of magazines are maintained; the bound volumes kept in the library and the loose copies which are circulated.

Books and magazines are secured for men engaged in all types of work. The names of the magazines received at the library are: American Machinist, Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Chemical Abstracts, Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering, Electrical World, Engineering News-Record, Factory, Fire Protection Service, Forbes Magazine, G. E. Review, Industrial Engineer, Industry Illustrated, Industrial Management, Industrial Psychology, Journal of the American Waterworks Association, Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, Journal of Personnel Research, Monthly Labor Review, National Safety News, Nations Business, Paper Industry, Paper Mill and Wood Pulp News, Paper Trade Journal, Power, Pulp and Paper Magazine of Canada, System, Harvard Business Review, Journal of the Society of Chemical Industry, Zellstoff und Papier, Wochenblatt fur Papierfabrikation and Der Papierfabrikant.

A special effort also is made to get for readers any article on paper technology that is in print, in either American or foreign languages.

A short time ago a request was received for a book on paper making published in Germany, in June 1871, later or revised edition of that book could not do—it had to be that specific edition and the request was filled in 36 hours. In order to fill such requests the library must keep in touch with all sources of paper making in print.

The library is used extensively by all employees of the organization. There are four hundred bound volumes and a card catalogue of 29,000 cards. The library has only been in existence for a year and a half and is being added to continuously. A. MacArthur, educational director of the company, is to have within five years one of the best paper technical libraries in the country.

It is the central library for the Kimberly-Clark mills and circulates to all of them.

A. MacArthur, educational director, supervises the library, and Miss Jean Brigham is librarian. They are now working on a duplicate copy of the library for the Kimberly-Clark mills in Canada.

BOARD OF HEALTH
FARM IN MENASHA

Suggest Investigation of Charges That Family Broke
Small Pox Quarantine

Neenah—Charges that Neenah people were exposed to small pox by removers of a town of Menasha family who came into the city while their home was under quarantine were made at a meeting of the board of health here Monday night. The board adopted a resolution prohibiting the delivery of milk from the home of Fred Zeh, town of Menasha, in the city of Neenah, until it is assured there is no small pox in the family. It also was suggested at the meeting that health officers of the town of Menasha investigate charges that members of the Zeh family went into Neenah and attended social functions and basketball games while their home was quarantined.

According to Dr. R. E. Ozanne, Neenah city physician, permission was granted the Zeh family to deliver milk to men who had the quarantine in effect providing that no person under quarantine handle the milk or take part in bottling and distributing. The state board of health sanctioned this authorization. Dr. Ozanne said. But after it was reported that members of the family had left the home while it was under quarantine it was considered advisable to prohibit the delivery of milk from the farm and arrangements were made with another milk company to serve the Zeh customers.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Push your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys; their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weak; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels
often get sore and irritated, obliging
you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful
in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and more a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

BUSY FARMERS ARE NEGLECTING HORSES, WRITER FINDS

OVERLOOK DOBBIN IN THEIR EFFORTS TO ADD PRODUCTION

Loss Results Where Horses Are Kept Idle Greater Part of Year

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Farmers have developed into experts in forcing their poultry, animals and land to the highest possible degree of productiveness. They have practically turned their cows into milk-producing machines, their flocks into egg factories and their hogs into lard and bacon plants, all running on full time. Each animal or bird that cannot measure up to a certain standard of production is culled out and discarded and a better one takes its place. In the struggle for the greatest production, farmers, however, neglect their horses the greater part of the year, charge them nothing for their board and lodging, give them no credit for the work they do and never attempt to figure the profit or loss from them.

Time was when the horse was the most useful and profitable farm animal. He worked from dawn to dusk on the farm day after day each working day and at night he trudged to the grocery store with food, and on Sunday to church. Besides supplying the power to plow, and helping plant and harvest the crops, he did the same thing in clearing the land and in all kinds of lumbering operations. In spare time in summer he worked on the roads and in winter he tugged at logs and cord wood. If there was no work for him in winter on the farm he was sent to some logging camp and brought back as soon as he was needed in the spring. Among animals he was the greatest money maker on the farm, but it was considered economical and profitable to keep him at work daily. The usual order of farmers to their teamsters was "Keep that team going John. When it stops, there is no roadway on the farm until you start it again." Now farmers do not appear to be concerned even if their teams are in their stall the greater part of the year.

NEED INTELLIGENT PLANNING

By intelligent planning, horses could again be made a source of farm profit. They can still furnish the power for working the fields and at spare intervals in summer and winter, they may be used to haul gravel and crushed stone and sand from neighboring pits and quarries to points where road construction is in progress. If they are kept at work in these or some other lines, horses again will prove themselves to be among the most profitable farm animals, but if they are kept in idleness the greater part of the year, they will prove themselves the most expensive. To say nothing of his care, a horse eats three tons of hay and fifty bushels of oats or more a year.

One writer says with respect to using horses on the farm: "Studies made by the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois show, for example, that the most profitable farms in the state are those where farmers use their horses about 1,000 hours per horse each year."

PLENTY 'LOAFING' TIME

"Even if a horse is worked 1,000 hours a year, as is the case on the most profitable farms in Illinois, there is still plenty of time left for him to loaf. He would be resting nearly eight hours for every hour he works during the year."

Formerly the custom was to have one horse for each 40 acres in a farm or one good team for 50 acre farms, or less.

Now, one for each 25 acres of land under cultivation is a safe rule to follow, according to Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America. He says that the economic basis which each farmer should follow generally is to keep only that number of horses or mules for working purposes that will do the work when it should be done as it should be done. "It is as wasteful for a farmer to keep idle horses on the farm to eat up expensive feed as it would be to drive a tractor into a fence corner at quitting time and allow the engine to run all night, using a tank full of expensive gasoline," says Frank Ridgway.

DIFFERENCE IN EFFICIENCY

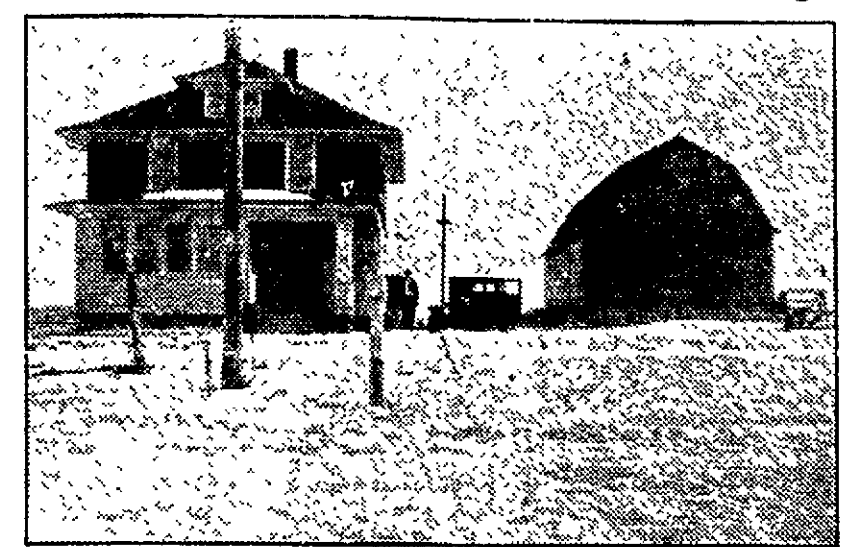

There is a great difference in the efficiency of farm labor in different parts of the country, which is indicated by the Horse association's observers, who find that the southern farmer uses two small mules, a walking plow and one Negro laborer to plow 1 1/2 acres to 2 acres a day. Ohio and Pennsylvania farmers generally use 3 horses, a 14 or 16 inch plow and one man to plow 2 1/2 to 3 acres per day. Illinois and Iowa farmers use 4 to 5 horses on a two bottom gang plow and turn 4 to 5 acres per day. Western Nebraska farmers use 5 horses, a three bottom plow and one man to plow 8 to 9 acres per day. Oregon and Washington farmers drive 18 to 20 horses on a six bottom plow combination made by hitching two or three bottom plows tandem, and plow from 15 to 20 acres per day per man. On the other farm work is done in the same ratio in these respective sections of our country, according to Mr. Dinsmore who blames customs for the differences. He finds that farmers from coast to coast follow the iron clad rule of plowing "an acre a day per horse."

In Outagamie-co. plowing is done with two, three and four horse teams, the size of the plows and the daily work done depending upon the number of horses in the team.

To make the horse pay for his board and lodging, and as profitable a source of farm income as other farm animals, steady work must be found for him to do. The horse is on the farm to stay and, while he is there, he might better be made a source of profit than continued as a bill of expense.

Outagamie-co Farmer Erects Own Buildings

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Kaukauna—Anton Welhouse, route 5, has the distinction of being the only owner of a farm in Outagamie-co. who, during the past year, built a complete set of new, modern farm buildings on his farm. But Mr. Welhouse's building operations are unusual in another way. The farm and the site he selected for his building activities was never before occupied by farm buildings of any description.

The house and barn, shown above, are attractively painted, the house in white and the barn in gray. The house is square, two stories high, 28 by 30 feet, provided with a sun parlor, 9 1/2 feet by 14 1/2 feet and a basement under all. It contains 10 rooms and is finished in hardwood. Hot and cold water are supplied by a piping system

KASSILKE GUERNSEY HERD AMONG FINES IN OUTAGAMIE-CO

President of Breeders' Association Lauds Work of Testing Cows

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Appleton—A. B. Kassilke, route 7, president of the Fox River Valley Guernsey Breeders' association, has been engaged in the dairy business the past six years with high powered Guernsey ability and a herd of high grade Guernseys as the chief elements of his equipment.

To improve his herd and to change gradually to purebreds, Mr. Kassilke, some time ago purchased a herd sire, Homestead Butter King, now 2 1/2 years old, from Jamison Bros., Appleton, route 2, successful breeders of purebred Guernseys. The three nearest dams of this animal have a record each of over 800 pounds of butterfat in a year.

In giving an outline of the history of his herd, Mr. Kassilke spoke a good word for the work the Outagamie County Cow Testing association is doing. Several years ago, Mr. Kassilke bought Havien's Advocate, a herd sire from Emory C. Meltz, route 2, Appleton. The six nearest dams of this sire had very good butterfat records. His six daughters, however, owned by Mr. Kassilke have surpassed the butterfat records of their six ancestors mentioned. For instance, the butterfat record of Dotti, one of these dams was 4,490 pounds, while that of her two year old daughter, Stubby, is 5,950 per cent. The dam of Lucy, one of these cows had a record of 4,46 per cent. The dam of Burgett had a record of 3,50 per cent and Burgett made a record of 3,98 per cent. Dam of Cherry made a butterfat record of 3,37, and Cherry, 4,32 per cent. The dam of Floozy tested 4,84 and Floozy, 5,09 per cent. The dam of Snoop had a butterfat record of 3,75 and Snoop tested 3,90 per cent. The average herd test for the past year, from 13 cows, was 435 pounds daily, with an average butterfat test of 4.24 per cent.

CREDITS ASSOCIATION

"Without exception," said Mr. Kassilke, "the six daughters of Havien's Advocate are making higher records than did his six nearest dams."

"The efficient work of the Outagamie County Cow Testing association brought out the production of the younger six of these cows and made possible the comparisons above."

In his herd, Mr. Kassilke now has 20 animals consisting of 17 cows, 13 head of young stock and the herd sire.

Mr. Kassilke has more hay than ever before for the support of his cattle, but he is low on silage. He has oats enough but he is short on barley. He depends on alfalfa, corn, oats and barley largely for his winter feed. These feeds he supplements with oil meal, minerals and salt. For pasture, he uses White Blossom sweet clover and says of it: "There is no pasture for cattle equal to sweet clover." Each acre of sweet clover supplies pasture to two cattle for the season, or in other words, Mr. Kassilke, last year, while that of his two year old daughter, Stubby, is 5,950 per cent on 10 acres of sweet clover.

"At the time that a nurse crop is removed from new seeding of sweet clover," said Mr. Kassilke, "the old sweet clover pasture field may be stripped, but the new seeding is ready for pasture. Before turning his cattle into sweet clover the first time in a season, Mr. Kassilke feeds them in the stalls and after that he leaves the cattle in the pasture field day and night. By taking these simple precautions, Mr. Kassilke has never had a case of bloating."

Cattle grading demonstrations are being conducted in western range states by the Department of Agriculture. These demonstrations are conducted on isolated ranches some 75 miles from a railroad and are attended by cattlemen who often travel 100 miles to learn how to cull and grade their cattle.

BUTTER PRICES SHOW GAIN DURING WEEK

Cheese Market Unchanged; Hog and Cattle Prices Fluctuate; Sheep 25 Cents Higher

Madison—(P)—Fractional advances and fairly active trading featured the butter markets during the past week, according to the weekly review by the state department of markets.

"The situation on the butter markets was very satisfactory during the past week," the report stated. "Several fractional advances took place on most scores. Trading was fairly active and dealers were generally effecting close clearance of top scoring vats. Several arrivals of New Zealand butter were reported. Some of the large buyers have been attracted to New Zealand butter by the favorable price. It is reported that the present satisfactory consumptive demand inspires confidence in the situation. Centralized and market supplies were comparatively light and demand was fair. Butter prices are 4 1/2 cents higher than last year at this time.

"The cheese markets were steady at unchanged prices. Trading was generally quiet, buyers taking only enough cheese to fill their immediate needs. Movement was confined to small peddling lots of fresh and cured cheese. Production is reported light. Since early in the summer receipts at Wisconsin warehouse have consistently fallen below the receipts of corresponding weeks in 1925. The total reduction in receipts on Dec. 18 amounted to more than 18,000,000 pounds and 6,500,000 as compared with the years of 1925 and 1924 respectively. Cheese prices are about a cent higher than last year at this time.

"The hog market fluctuated considerably during the past week. Early in the week exceptionally small receipts resulted in higher prices but liberal loadings later in the week forced values down and the prices at the close of the week were about the same as at the end of the previous week. Shipping demand was very good during the week. Hog prices are about the same as a year ago.

"Fluctuations in prices featured the cattle market during the past week. As a result of the inability of the demand to absorb even moderate runs prices declined during the early part of the week. Later in the week an active shipping demand helped to regain some losses but the week closed with prices 25 to 50 cents lower than at the close of the previous week. Cattle prices are about 25 cents higher than a year ago at this time. "Although sheep receipts were larger than during the previous week, prices closed 25 cents higher. The week's high price of values was reached at the close when choice medium weight lambs scored the top of $13.35. Prices are about $3 lower than last year at this time."

HARRISON STAR ORANGE HOLDS YEARLY ELECTION

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Menasha—The Harrison Star Grange which holds its meetings in the Red Star schoolhouse, route 1, elected the following officers, at the annual meeting recently: A. B. Kassilke, master; L. J. Bartlein, secretary; Mrs. George Wittman, lecturer; Ronald Bartlein, overseer; William Barker, treasurer; Mrs. William Barker, chaplain; Urban Meehl, steward; Peter Dietzen, assistant steward; Mrs. Peter Dietzen, lady assistant steward; Isabella Meehl, Ceres; Dorothy Hawley, Flora; Mrs. Martin Vander Velden, Pomona, and Ollie Huelsbeck, gatekeeper.

The installation of these officers will take place the first Friday in January, provided the services of Herman Ildo, master of the state Grange, are available on that date.

The Harrison Star Grange was organized two years ago with an enrollment of 38 charter members. Its healthy growth since that time is indicated by the fact that it now has an active membership of 74.

HOW MUCH NUTRITION IN A SAUSAGE? U. S. WANTS TO FIND OUT

Washington, D. C.—The department of agriculture is going to investigate the nutritive value of all sausages, including those which President Coolidge has been serving, along with wheat cakes, at White House breakfasts.

Although sausage is still an important part of the American diet, little has been done in the past to determine its nutritive value, department experts said. Studies are now in progress in the department of agriculture to determine the chemical composition, vitamin content, and biological values of the proteins of the more important kinds of sausage on the market. Up to the end of the fiscal year, as shown by the recent annual report of the bureau, 82 samples of sausage had been analyzed. The determination of the vitamin and protein values is in progress.

Sausage breakfasts have been a feature at the White House. Irregular Republicans after attending them have voted for Coolidge programs, indicating that from that standpoint at least, they are highly nutritive.

COUNTY HOLSTEIN SALE MANAGERS TO ORGANIZE

At a meeting in Madoc on last week, sale managers from the following counties were present: Duin, Dane, Wood, Clark, Rock, Columbia, Walworth, Fond du Lac, Iowa, Sauk and Jefferson. The principal subject for discussion at this meeting was the matter of organizing a group of sales which would enable the various counties to pool their advertising in one campaign so as to command the attention of the buying public, not only in the central western states but all over the country where buyers are interested in purchasing purebred Holstein cattle. The advantage to be derived from the various counties pooling their advertising in one campaign was discussed in detail and everyone present seemed to be enthusiastic over the possibilities which such a method provided.

In order that the constituents of various county managers may have an opportunity to get first hand information in regard to the many advantages to be derived from such a plan, it was deemed advisable to hold a series of meetings at which these people could have the problem put before them in detail. Such meetings will be held in various parts of the state within the very near future.

ALFALFA CROP BECOMES POPULAR IN 5 YEARS

The most significant acreage change in alfalfa has taken place in the last five years, it is reported in the Biennial Crop and Live Stock Review. Wisconsin acreage for this crop in 1919 was 70,000, in 1924 it was 287,000, and in 1925, 310,000. The crop is especially popular in Outagamie-co. in the southwestern corner. Although confined largely to the limestone soils of eastern Wisconsin, the crop in recent years is being grown on many types of soils.

FIND BUTTER IS TOO YELLOW TO SUIT TRADE

Guernsey, English Channel Islands—(P)—Guernsey's famous butter has become too rich in color, and scientists are trying to conceive methods of taking the yellow out of it. Consumers suspect that the golden hue is due to artificial coloring, and have become afraid of it.

Charles Kitts, B. A., president of Guernsey Chamber of Commerce, says that the butter will not be served here after to visitors unless they ask for it.

"Yet we pay 3 shillings and 4 pence a pound for Guernsey butter," he explained, "while the best English butter is sold here at 2 shillings a pound. Guernsey butter is yellow simply because our Guernsey cow is yellow. The is lined with yellow fat, and this even exudes from her."

Tank Holsteins Making Good Production Record

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Menasha—Walter A. Tank, route 1, started dairying eight years ago with a herd of Holstein grades which his father had built up in 18 years. But in the line of improving the herd, Walter, instead of taking a stand where his father left off, began at once to cull out boarders and to introduce purebred animals. His first big step in advance was the purchase of Estherbrook Clyde Colantha, a purebred Holstein cow, from Fred Peterson, Appleton, in October, 1922. This cow is giving 60 pounds of milk daily with a butterfat test of 3.4 per cent. Her daughter produces 50 pounds of milk daily. The butterfat test of the latter cow's milk in mid summer was 4 per cent. Two years ago, Mr. Tank purchased a purebred Holstein herd sire and a 2-year-old purebred heifer from W. H. Steffensen, an Appleton breeder of Holstein cattle.

At the present time, Mr. Tank is milking 13 cows and is getting from 350 to 400 pounds of milk daily. In this number, are four grade Holsteins

CABBAGE IMPORTANT CASH CROP IN COUNTY

Cabbage is an important cash crop on many farms in Outagamie, Racine and Kenosha-coes, according to the last issue of the Biennial Crop and Live Stock Review. Kraut factories use part of the production but much of the crop is stored for winter use.

Approximately 2,500 acres of land in Outagamie-co. were grown to cabbage last year, the Review reports. Racine and Kenosha-coes were the heaviest producers of this crop in 1925 but Outagamie-co. was third.

Other counties which produce cabbage are St. Croix, Pierce, Eau Claire, Chippewa, Clark, Jackson, La Crosse, Marinette, Door, Brown, Manitowish, Fond du Lac, Columbia, Dane, Rock, Walworth, Waupaca and Wood.

BREEDERS FORCED TO BUY FEED FOR CATTLE THIS YEAR

Damaged Crops Last Fall Compel Purchase of Both Hay and Grain Ration

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Seymour—According to Robert Kuehne, buyer and shipper of livestock here, farmers are short of the usual amount of cattle feed raised on their farms and nearly all of them are now paying feed to make up the shortage or will be doing so before spring. Hay was not more than one-half the average crop, oats and barley were damaged by almost continuous rains at stacking time and a large fraction of a poor corn crop, almost ruined by an early frost, is still in the fields. The ears that some farmers snapped out and left in the fields to dry are now covered with snow. Much of the corn harvested was bleached and too dry when put in the silos and as a consequence is mouldy and of low value as feed. As a result of this shortage of home grown feeds, Mr. Kuehne, since Nov. 1, has sold 15 carloads of corn to farmers each containing 90,000 pounds at from 80 to 85 cents a bushel and also large quantities of bran and middlings. Dr. Herman Helms, North Seymour, has lately shipped in two car loads of hay and distributed it among farmers at the rate of $22 per ton, and Mr. Kuehne, in the past a large buyer of local grown hay, is now selling hay to local farmers.

On Monday, Mr. Kuehne shipped two car loads of dairy cows to Elk-horn, valued at $4,300, and on Tuesday five car loads of other livestock consisting of 200 calves, 200 hogs and 40 head of cattle.

From April 1, 1926, to the present time, Mr. Kuehne has shipped 800 dairy cows to dairymen of Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, and southern Wisconsin.

Growers of cabbage are now getting that are producing daily from 40 to 50 pounds of milk.

Mr. Tank's herd, including sire and young stock, consists of 39 animals. The individuals for the most part are good grades, but he says he will continue to work into purebreds until all grades, except possibly the best producers, are eliminated.

To feed his cattle, Mr. Tank last summer harvested 35 tons of mixed alfalfa hay, 15 acres of good corn, shipped by the early frost, all of which went into the silo, and has turned into silage of fair quality, 800 bushels of oats, 100 bushels of barley and the straw of the oats and barley which he stored in his barns. Beside these homegrown feeds, Mr. Tank uses a commercial ration mixed with ground oats in the proportion of two pounds of the ration to one pound of the meal.

DAIRYING REPLACES SHEEP INDUSTRY HERE

The sheep industry in Outagamie-co., as well as in the entire state, has given way to dairying, the Biennial Crop and Live Stock Review issued by the United States and Wisconsin State Departments of Agriculture, indicates.

Approximately only 1,500 sheep are being raised on Outagamie-co. farms now, the Review shows. This number was considerably larger a few years ago.

Richland co. in the southwestern part of the state, although one of the smallest counties, is one of the leading ones with respect to sheep raising.

In 1920 the peak of the sheep raising industry was reached in the state, the population of this livestock in that year being approximately 1,100,000. Since that time the number has been decreasing steadily.

In 1910 the number had been diminished to 734,000, ten years later it was 480,000, and in 1925 it was estimated at 368,000.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY
A final, definite and binding conclusion on the Lakes to the Ocean waterway has been given by the federal commission in favor of the St. Lawrence project. As a matter of fact, neither the Ontario-Hudson nor the All-American route received serious consideration. The factors which favored the St. Lawrence route were so overwhelming and complete that there really was no alternative in making a choice. It was certain from the beginning that this would be the ultimate decision of the commission, and that from any and all standpoints, cost, utility, economy, national defense and water power development, the St. Lawrence river had no rival. Efforts to divert public attention through the possibility of using the Hudson river and the New York Barge canal were mostly obstructive, or designed to secure delays. New York and New England were provincially hostile to the St. Lawrence seaway from the beginning. They did not want a sea outlet for the middle west. With them it was more a question of enveloping the undertaking in controversy that might frustrate it, and later of palming off a substitute far less practical, and which would cost an almost prohibitive sum.
Something like ten years have now elapsed since the mid-continent commenced to pin its hopes on a water outlet to the Atlantic, with its accompanying benefits of cheap transportation that would put its farmers more on a parity with other competing grain-growing countries and its industries more on a parity with those of the seaboard. The commission recognizes all of the claims made by the mid-west in its demand for this great transportation facility. It will save in freight costs and in added returns to producers more in one year than the American share of the cost of building the canal. The potential water power to be developed will not only pay for itself, but the cost of the canal as well. It is, therefore, an altogether profitable enterprise for the country as a whole. Two-fifths of the population of the country will draw immediate benefits from extending the Atlantic seaboard westward to the Great Lakes. New York and New England will benefit from power development. The railroads will be relieved of tonnage of a low class, permitting the use of their overtaxed equipment and facilities for traffic of a higher class and for the better functioning of their transportation system as a whole.
The St. Lawrence seaway is the most important public improvement ever before this country, with the possible exception of the Panama canal. If we eliminate the strategic and military value of the canal we think, so far as purely domestic commerce is concerned, the outlet to the Atlantic from the Great Lakes is of even greater importance. At any rate, it will be a close second to the Panama canal in traffic destined to or originating in this country. No other waterway improvement approaches it in the economic necessities of the country. Beside it the scheme to connect Chicago with the Mississippi river, in the guise of a Lakes to the Gulf waterway, is a mill-pond affair. All of the mid-west grain will go east or abroad through the Great Lakes. None of it will go down the Mississippi, for it would go down that stream now if there was any reason for it or any economy in it. Some manufacturers will go down this nine-foot sluice, but not much of these. The mid-west will send its products eastward.
All reasons for not proceeding with the St. Lawrence seaway are now removed. The commission recommends immediate steps to bring about its authorization. This can be done by proceeding at once to negotiate the necessary treaty with Canada, apportioning the cost, dividing the benefits and covering all questions touching their respective rights in the Great Lakes. There should be no serious difficulties in reaching this understanding. Perhaps it may even include a disposition of the Chicago drainage canal diversion that will be satisfactory all around. At any rate, it is now up to the government to move, and move rapidly, toward this already too long deferred work. Politics has been at times a discouraging obstacle, but it has not prevailed. We should have no more of it in this undertaking. The interests of some forty million people are directly affected by it, as is the future prosperity and sound development of the very heart of the continent.

MAKING APPLETON GROW
Resolved "to make haste slowly" and to be sure of every step that is taken, the massmeeting of citizens in the city hall Wednesday night authorized Mayor Rule to appoint a committee of seven representative men to continue investigation of M. T. Shaw, Inc., which is seeking a new location for its shoe factory now in Racine. Experience has taught that great care should be exercised in offering inducements to industries to come to a city. There must be every assurance that an industry helped by the public will be an asset to the community from which it receives this help and this assurance can be attained only by the most painstaking investigation of the business and the men behind it.
It is doubtful whether the men who organized our form of government contemplated that the duty of seeking out new industries should devolve upon the common council but in the absence of any other agency engaged in this meritorious work it seems justified. Appleton cannot and will not make the growth its citizens hope for unless new industries are brought here. The city's natural advantages of course will attract some persons and some families but not in sufficient numbers ever to make Appleton a really important city. It must depend upon industry to do that.
Other cities have demonstrated that if their advantages are properly advertised and sufficient energy is put forth that worthwhile industries can be induced to locate in them. Green Bay, Wis., and Dayton, Ohio, are outstanding examples of what can be done in the way of securing industries by concerted action. Both cities owe much of their growth to the well directed efforts of their citizens to make them grow.
The common council became engaged in investigating business concerns with the view of inviting them to locate here because it felt this particular civic enterprise was being neglected. It saw other cities reaching out for new factories and new employers, cities with fewer natural advantages than Appleton has to offer, and it rightfully believed that if the claims of this city were properly and energetically presented Appleton might also benefit from this kind of work.
But all that the council members can do is to investigate and suggest and recommend—the citizens must do the rest. The aldermen deserve commendation for their interest in the welfare of their city and they should be supported by active cooperation of the men and women who will profit most from the growth of Appleton.

HOME
Home, where there's naught but love blended in the cheering.
Shut the door and draw the blinds! now the day is dawning.
I can be myself awhile, done with sordid trading.
Home from the busy world, out of all the hating,
Out of all the bitterness, the long and anxious waiting.
Home to hear the kettle sing and hear the children
chatter,
Home where there is none to scorn, none to fawn
and flatter.
Home from the crowded streets, out of all the scheming,
Home where no selfish strife spoils our idle dreaming.
Men in every market place are merely money
changers,
Shut the door and draw the blinds! Here there are no strangers.
I shall fare to fight again, day shall bring its battling,
Thank the Lord for night and home and the chil-

Here I drop my armor cold, and enter into glad-

Home from the surging world and out of all its

THE NEW WOMAN TESTIFIES
An anonymous correspondent who purports to be a woman writes from a Kentucky village that there is no use in "being disrespectful to that old woman, she certainly has the goods on you."
That old woman was another anonymous one whose letter was so characteristic of all that is deplorable in health education for women that I used it as a horrible example. But I don't see how one can be disrespectful to an anonymous individual. Seems to me one might as well go out and bay at the moon.
An Arkansas woman writes that she was brought up by a grandmother who would not let her take a bath at the menstrual time nor for days before, and who made her coddle herself with enormous amounts of clothing, and all that. "Later, when I married and became my own boss," (that's one tendency I'm not sure I like in the new woman, but maybe this Arkansas mother doesn't mean to reflect on her husband's capacity) "I wore the same undies winter and summer, changed from heavy to light clothing or practically none whenever I wished, washed my head and took a bath and even went in swimming whenever I pleased and never for years have I had the slightest disturbance of my health or the feminine functions, though according to the old fogies I should now be dead."
Then the healthy Arkansas mother healthy in body as well as in mind, puts a finish on her testimony which wipes out the unpleasant taste of some of the anonymous criticisms: "It seems to me that anyone with these senses could see the reasonableness of all your teachings about health." Trouble is, I fear, that much of the popular sense about such questions of hygiene is not exactly horse sense, but of another equine species.
"Why is it," the anonymous Kentucky woman asks, "that nine-tenths of the women between 40 and 50 years old have this critical ill health, if there is no such ailment as change of life?"
Well, why did we hear nothing about the pills he used to train a following the late Jock Dempsey spectacle? You can't always tell the depth of the well unless you see the handle on the pump. It must be an exceedingly backward community indeed where 90 per cent of the women suffer serious impairment of health when they reach the very age at which a woman should be fit to give her best to life and get the most out of life. No such sad state of physical depravity prevails in any community within my ken, although badly educated or well misinformed women everywhere are fond of telling the town of Orange that this is the case. This little lie serves as an alibi to keep the woman from consulting her physician about her ill health; and the quacks and nostrum vendors appropriate a share of their profits to the propagation of the wicked idea or suggestion that there is something indelicate, unwomanly or immodest about a person of the feminine sex seeking medical advice. You'll find that nasty suggestion running through all the fake testimonials and doctored pictures which these disreputable business people publish.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Convalescent from Pneumonia
A month ago my little girl aged 8 years took sick with pneumonia. Will it be all right to send her back to school now? And also, should I put heavier underwear on her this winter? (Mrs. A. J.)
Answer—If she is fully recovered she should return to school now. Dress her with regard for her own comfort. Do not put more clothing on her than she ordinarily finds comfortable. Coddling or excessive clothing is harmful.

EUROPEAN MAP CHANGES.
Washington, D. C. — Everybody knows that the World War changed the map of Europe in many vital ways, but the latest products of the map-makers, coupled with the efforts of the International Postal Union, telegraph and cable and express companies and tourist agencies, have outdone the war two to one in upsetting geography as the present generation learned it in school. New maps of Europe are about off the press, and the students of even post-war years will find himself quite lost in a new maze of spellings which will make him wonder how he secured passing grades in geography.
Names of cities have been so thoroughly remodeled to meet with the European spellings that a map of the 1920 era is almost as antique as the charts which inspired Columbus to suspect that the world was round. Not only are scores of simple changes, which make Rome into Roma, Lisbon into Lisboa, Genoa into Genova, and Moscow into Moskva, but there are dozens of more radical departures. Leghorn is now Livorno. The Hague has become 's Gravenhage, Vienna is Wien, Revel is Tallinn, Monastir is Elitoli, Gallipoli is Geliboli, and the Russian changes are even more complicated.
Ekaterinburg, where the late czar was killed, is now Sverdlovsk, and Tsaritsin has been named Stalingrad. Jassy is Iasi and Ekaterinodol is Krasnodar. In fact, Russia, or the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics has been quite thoroughly mapped for the first time, and the results of this enterprise alone may well change geography from a nice, pleasant, easy study into a perfect horror for our youth.
A great amount of new information about other things than spelling city names will be revealed by the maps of the 1927 era. The rivers and mountains of Europe have been much more

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

CLEAR SPRINGS ARE FOUNTS OF YOUTH
BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.
What memories cling about some favorite and well-remembered spring! Perhaps it bubbled up through the sand in some hollow at the edge of the meadow, with alders growing close about on all sides except where it was kept clear for access. About it grew the meadow grasses, and sweet flags, and blue iris.
Frogs with green backs and creamy white throats, and huge outstanding eyes tinged with brown, crouched motionless on the bank. One was careful not to startle them for they rolled the clear water.
ON HOT SUMMER DAYS
Here we went on hot summer days, while fishing along the brook that then seemed so wide, and now has shrunk so. Later, when weary from swinging the scythe, through thick weedy grass, we took frequent drinks from its clear well.
Or perhaps we are thinking of some other spring at the base of the rock-wall the wood-violets reared their blue flowers. From it flowed the tiny stream that fed by branches from other springs soon grew to the meadow rill beneath whose grassy banks the bright-spotted trout lurked for careless cricket or grasshopper.
WITH CHANGING SEASONS
To this spring, too, we came, for each favorite meadow, or hillside, or ravine had its fountain. In the springtime, save for the moss and the evergreen, it was alone in its beauty; in summer, bright blossoms were re-

See-Sawing On Broadway
By Gilbert Swan

New York—This Christmas season scene struck me as typical of Manhattan perhaps because of its suburban setting.
For several days, as I plunged with the rest of the human ants through the clicking, whirling turnstiles of the subway, I had noticed a languid group of workmen fixing a Christmas tree in the waiting room of one of the railroad stations.
Now there is nothing quite so impersonal as a railroad station. Perhaps the good folk of Hightstown Center did find a certain social aspect in the depot, but even there the strange traveling men brushed by impersonally. And in a Manhattan station impersonality reaches a high peak. The throngs brush and shove and disappear through the clicking gates or down the gaping stairway—streams of humans being swallowed and vanishing.
Meanwhile in the great, warm vestibules men sit by the hour. Here is heat without cost. There is no mystery about these men. They are not waiting trains. They are hiding out from the cold. Puritively they will grab a newspaper left behind by some scurrying commuter and will turn to the want ads. They will scan these but they will not move.
After a while a couple will go out and beg the price of coffee and come back. When night comes they will borrow the price of a bed, or seek public charities. Tomorrow they will be back again in the warmth.
It was such a scene as might have come from the Vermont hills. Or perhaps from Maine. Tall, slender, young, tapering to the finest needlepoint as its shaved tip thrust into the ceiling above. The casual workers had hoisted stepladders and taken out the silver and gold and red and green trimmings of a previous year.
The crowds kept up a continuous parade on either side of the tree, giving it not the slightest attention. They were too busy catching trains. Perhaps it reminded some that a tree must be bought that night.
Negro redcaps swept its branches aside with suitcases as they dashed here and there. It made me wonder why the tree was there at all, why it should even have been taken from its Vermont hillside to end up, the week after Christmas, in a dump-pile behind the station.
The old men were sitting about it, sunk comfortably into their benches. The tree drapers had brought a slight change of routine into their day. They sat, half asleep from the stifling heat of the underground chamber.
Suddenly one of the men—I'd guess his age around 35—left his bench and walked over. Slowly he took out a jackknife and was about to cut off a lower branch when stopped by a workman.
"What's the big idea?" I heard an officer ask him.
"Aw, just thought I'd have it for my own." "S'funny! This is the first year of my life, I guess, that I haven't had a Christmas tree. Won't have any unless I swipe it. Used to have 'em at home. Just went out in the backyard and took it. Up in the Oregon spruce country. Lumbered 'em for years and then lumbered up in Maine. Never thoughta cutting one down. Right there. S'darn funny a guy can't have one dam little branch."
"Couldn't hurt a job lumberin' this year. Hurt my back. S'darn funny."
His last words fell on dead ears. The workers had gone back and the officer turned away. He shuffled back to his seat muttering "S'darn funny!"
And so it is!

SEE NO CHANGE FOR INDIANS TO WIN THEIR SUIT

Department of Interior Discourage Collection of Funds to Prosecute Case

Indians of the Six Nation confederacy have little or no chance of regaining possession of or payment for lands in the state of New York which they allege were illegally sold, according to an opinion issued by the office of Indian Affairs of the United States Department of the Interior to Congressman George J. Schneider.

More than 600,000 acres of land in the heart of New York state, valued at approximately $6,000,000,000 allegedly owned by the Six Nations tribe is the basis for the collection of money from members of the tribe by collectors who, it has been charged, explain to the Indians that unless they contribute to this fund their names will be stricken from the tribal rolls. If the Indians win the contemplated suit, it would mean approximately $50,000 to every Indian in the Six Nations. However, there is little or no likelihood that the Indians will win the suit, according to the opinion of the department of the interior.

The basis for the suit is on the treaty of 1784, by which the Six Nations were ceded the land. Under the treaty, it is alleged, individual Indians could not sell their property. Only through tribal action could these lands be disposed of, it is said. But the lands were sold by individuals and promoters of the suit contend the sales were illegal.

The tribal rolls are kept at Washington, D. C., under the supervision of government officials, the department of the interior explained to Mr. Schneider, and only through legal suit can the names of the Indians be stricken from the rolls.

If there should ever be a settlement of any kind on the claim, according to the information received by Mr. Schneider, all Indians on the rolls would receive a share even if they did not contribute to a fund to press their claims.

LIBRARY WILL OFFER 11 NEW PERIODICALS

Eleven new magazines will be available at the Appleton public library this year, when 63 periodicals will be included on the subscription list. In 1926 there were 58 different magazines. In some of the more popular periodicals, the library subscribes for two copies of each magazine. Four titles were dropped from the list of 1926, but another magazine of the same type usually was added.

"American Forests and Forest Life" will be taken instead of "American Forestry." "Libraries" will take the place of "Public Libraries." Two periodicals devoted to discussions of new books were added: "Books by the New York Herald Tribune" and "The Saturday Review of Literature." Other additions to this year's list are: "The American Girl," "Industrial Arts," "International Studio," "Monthly Labor Review," "Nature Magazine," "Theatre Magazine" and "Time." Two not included this year are "Arts and Decorations" and "Management and Administration."

"HER BIG NIGHT"

Laura La Plante has become a real motion picture star.

Her popularity has become so great among film fans of the world during the past two years that the Universal company has decided that she has earned the right to join the "star" class.

Her first real starring role—the first of a series of such pictures—comes to Fischer's Appleton Theatre Thursday when "Her Big Night" starts its engagement here.

As most of her pictures have been, "Her Big Night" is a farce comedy, and provides a role very well suited to the talent of the pretty, blonde comedienne.

REVIEW HEADS CAST

"Sealed Lips" is due at the New Bijou Wednesday and Thursday. This is a Waldorf feature starring Dorothy Revier with Cullen Landis. The plot, according to pre-view notices, deals with the "behind-the-scenes" life of people prominent in the social swirl.

Harold Shumate wrote and Antonio Gaudio directed this colorful story which reveals a father's great struggle to keep his daughter from knowing that he operates a gambling resort where the spect of society visits their fortunes. After he dies the gambling business is turned over to her, and she runs it successfully.

Howard, Sr., an effectively handled role by Tom Ricketts, demands of the girl that she play against his entire fortune, a quarter million dollars in value. At first the girl refuses, but when he persists, she yields, and wins to the consternation of all present.

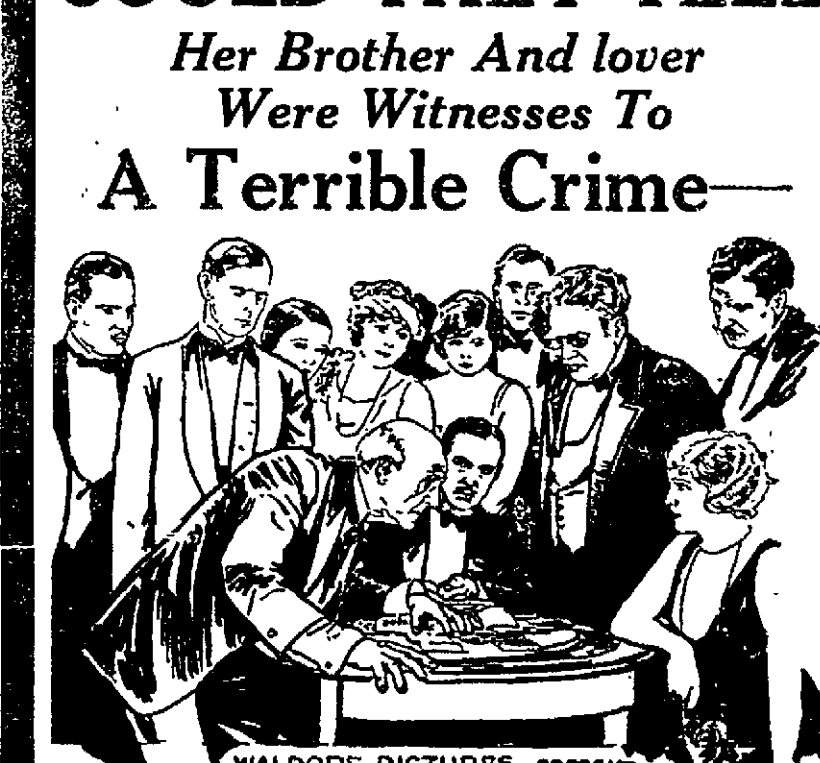

The old man dies as a result of the shock. His son, her former sweetheart, turns on her with scorn, having ended in the midst of the tragedy. Only a short time before the boy had seen her being embraced by Burke, just before the gambler's death, and not knowing him to be the girl's father, his love then turns to hate.

In the end young Howard realizes

TO ASSESS INCOME OF NON-WORKING PROPERTY

Madison—(AP)—T. Wisconsin Tax Commission was authorized to assess the income of non-working railroad property for the years 1916 to 1920, inclusive, in an opinion by Franklin

F. Bump, assistant attorney general here Tuesday.

The railroads were informed by the tax commission in 1915 that they were not required to pay income tax on property not used in the operation of their systems. An opinion from the attorney general's office in April, 1920, held the property to be taxable which was followed by a protest by the railroads on grounds that the income tax was illegal.

NEW FASHIONS A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN BEAUTY HINTS

This Year Has Been A Lean One In Movies, Says Critic Screen Year Disappointing--Hopes For Better Productions

BY GENE COIN
NEW YORK. Glancing back down the screen year, it seems a bit more disappointing than usual. While there have been several films that will not soon be forgotten, the general run of stuff was particularly dismal. Perhaps the tendency as the year ends may be said to be upward. From Hollywood come reports of Pola Negri's latest; of "Wings" and the new Von Stroheim; of Murnau's picture and of Jannings getting to work; of "Metropolis," and the new Murnau's picture; of "The Munchausen" and many more. LANGDON WELL RECEIVED
Of the new reputations made within the past year, the parade seems to me to be headed by that inimitable clown, Harry Langdon, who gave us "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" and "The Strong Man." He received a fortunate reception. Then there is Victor McLaglen's memorable acting in "What Price Glory?"—as fine a screen performance as the American cinema has recorded. There is Noah Beery's brutal captain in "Beau Geste"; Greta Garbo's rise as chronicled by "The Temptress," the alluring arrival of Clara Bow, and hints of considerable promise in Louise Brooks' bit in "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em."

MEMORABLE
To make the list complete, I have cause also to remember Emil Jannings and Lya de Putti in "Variety," Ricardo Cortez and Carol Demster in "Sorrowful Satan," Florence Vidor and Adolphe Menjou in "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," Andre Berenger in "So This Is Paris," and again in "The Eagle of the Sea," Wallace Beery in "We're in the Navy Now," and, again, in "Old Ironsides." Lois Moran in "God Gave Me 20 Cents"—otherwise a quite impossible picture; Vilma Banky in "Son of the Sheik"; Alec Francis in "Peter Grimm"; George Jessel in an otherwise incredible picture, "Private Izzy Murphy"; Gary Cooper (quite an unknown) in "The Winning of Barbara Worth"; anything Renee Adoree has done no matter how terrible the picture, and Lars Hansen in "The Scarlet Letter."

On the other hand, it is unpleasant to record that nothing outstanding has come from such established stars as Mary Pickford, Gloria Swanson, Douglas Fairbanks, Harold Lloyd, Betty Bronson, Milton Sills, Colleen Moore, Ebe Daniels, Lon Chaney, Mae Murray, Marion Davies, Richard Dix and the rest. The pictures of 1926 which I liked best were: "What Price Glory?," "Beau Geste," "Variety," "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "Moana," "Tramp Ironsides," "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," "So This Is Paris," "Potemkin," "The Scarlet Letter," "The Temptress" and "The Strong Man."

Household Hints

ICE BOX EFFICIENCY
You can economize space in your ice box by having the right sort of containers. Those of glass, or earthenware with fitted covers are excellent. Square-cornered nested dishes are very satisfactory and can be arranged to good advantage.

PIES AND PUDDINGS
Your meringue will be even and of a much more inviting color if you cook it in a slow oven.

SAVE THE BRUSHES
All brushes should be kept clean and scalded by dipping to the back and no deeper in boiling water. Then dry in the open air, with the brush down.

FOR BETTER WEAR
When you clean house, shift the stair carpet often enough to distribute the wear.

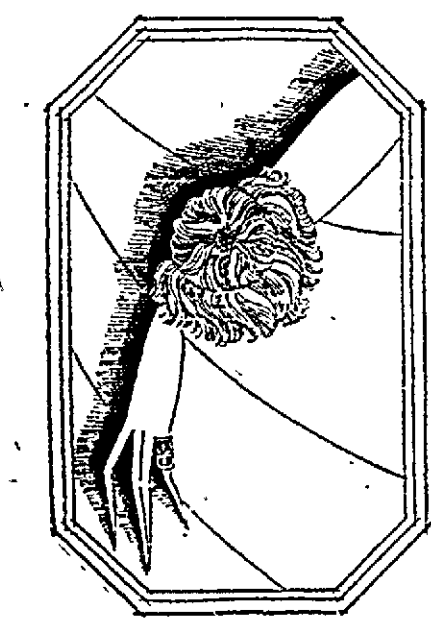

CHANGING COLORS
Before attempting to dye any fabric, wash it thoroughly and see that all spots have been removed.

IT DAMAGES THEM
When you put the egg beater to work, do not allow the eggs to get wet.

BORAX BLEACHES
Add a teaspoonful of powdered borax to the water in which handkerchiefs are to be washed. It will whiten them perceptibly.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

As dark clouds gathered overhead the Tinymites, to the snowman said, "It's raining night, and now you needn't worry 'bout the sun. We've built a snowhouse, close at hand, not high enough for you to stand, but you can crawl right in the place to sleep. 'Twill be much fun." So, in the snowhouse they all went, and there the long, cold night was spent. "Course Mister Snowman didn't sleep. He couldn't close his eyes. And so, although the ground was hard, he merely sat all night, on guard, and, in the morning, woke the bunch to the big sun rise. Outside they went, and played some more, not knowing just what was in store. Wee! Clowny left the rest and found a bush of berries sweet. "Hurray!" he shouted. "All at once and I will pass these berries 'round." Of course he didn't have to ask them twice, to make them eat. Then, as they saw the snowman jump, it made their hearts go "thump." "I think the sun is melting me," the frightened snowman cried. And, sure enough, his head grew loose, and soon he whispered, "What's the use of trying to keep on living when I'm weakening inside?" Alas, poor snowman smaller grew, and Scouty said, "What can we do? I think we ought to save him, if we just can find a way." But, as the sun shone very hot, they realized that there was not a chance to save their melting friend; not even for a day. How sad it was to watch him go real slow back into mere snow. It seemed he sort of settled down until he lost his form. And then the Tinymites all sighed, and Copy very loudly cried, "I think it sure is mean of Mister Sun to be so warm."

DISPUTE MEANS CONVERSATION

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A HIGH SCHOOL boy threw his books down with enough force to cripple their spinal cords forever. "Damn it all! Ed's got a disposition that would sour a pickle factory!" "Another dispute?" asked his mother. "Dispute?" Her son looked at her as though he was hearing a new word. "Dispute?" That's a good one! Say—just look at this skinned knuckle, will you? And wait till I get my overcoat off and you see the mud on my suit. Dispute! Well, you might call it a difference of opinion." "Look here, Dick," said his mother, "since I've got to mend your shirt and send that suit to the cleaners, I have a right to know what it was about. Be serious for once in your life and sit down and tell me." "Why—why—it was about New York." "New York?" "Yeah. Whether it is an island or

"Well, what on earth is the difference whether it's an island or a planet? What were you fighting about?" "Why, because, when Ed said it was an island, I said it wasn't. Then he got lippy and said it was and he could prove it and I was just a contrary old egg that didn't know enough to hatch. I had to sock him 'ne for that." "Look here, Dick," in a hopeless voice, "Ed was right. You are contrary. You belong to a large class of people who think that contradiction means conversation, and the other way about. The only way you know how to converse is to dispute and argue about every word anyone says to you. Then if the other person stands up for his own opinion, you take it as a personal matter and become abusive." "Say—is New York an island?" "Yeah. You see the Harlem river—" Dick jumped to the phone. "That

LIPSTICK A PROTECTION TO CHAPPED LIPS

New York.—(P)—Martha Ostenso was approached recently by a woman of middle-age who noticed the young novelist using a lipstick. "Can you tell me whether that is harmful?" the woman inquired. Miss Ostenso replied that on the contrary she had found a protection against chapped lips. "I believe I'll get some," the woman said. "What did you use?" Miss Ostenso could not remember whose product she used, and therefore was unable to join the ranks of endorsers. However, she broke off a portion of the cosmetic and gave it to the stranger.

FEW SHINGLE IN PORTUGAL

Lisbon.—(P)—Shingled hair is not generally popular in Portugal. This style of hairdressing has caught on only in the highest classes and the few rich, with a small exception into the upper middle classes. The worker and the peasant will have none of it. This is explained as it is a land where a woman's hair is really a crown of glory. In the northern provinces especially is this true, the care of her magnificent tresses being one of the chief preoccupations of the maiden.

ABANDON WOMEN'S FOOTBALL

London.—(P)—Authorities in Glamorgan have caused the abandonment of all women's football games following the death of Miss C. V. Richards who was injured while playing. The move has met a chorus of approval from leading lights in the athletic world. Major Marchant of the Women's Amateur Athletic Association expressed the hope that the day is not far distant when women's football will be unknown in this country. Our association confines its attention to track and field events."

RUSSIAN GIRLS' VOCATIONS

Berlin.—(P)—It is a characteristic of modern Russia that every woman and girl seems to devote herself to some vocation or other, and may even enlist as a soldier, if she desires, said Paula Steiner, woman journalist, lecturing in the woman's Lyceum Club on her repeated visits to Russia. Tape measures, held aloft by fellow employees in a drapery establishment, formed a novel armway for a bride recently in England.

WINTER IS AN ENEMY OF THE SKIN YOU LOVE TO TOUCH, BY NINON

IF YOU HAVE NO ICE, TRY ASNOWBALL.

BY NINON
T'HEAT roseleaf skin with the peach and cream color scheme is more easily accomplished in winter than in summer.

And fortunately, the upkeep is much lower. You can just keep your rouge and "pinks" with your orange-tinted and get your carmine tints free with the compliments of the season.

You have nothing to fear from wind and snow, if you give yourself slight care, and have much to gain in clearness, vividness and that glowing, vibrant color that is so alluring. Naturally you must avoid chapping, but that is very easy to do. You need only understand why your skin chaps and then act accordingly. Chapping is the result of exposing a damp skin to wind and cold.

THAT SANDPAPER SURFACE
For instance, if you wash your hands in very warm water, mop them off hastily with a towel, and go out into the cold before they are thoroughly dry, you must expect a sandpaper surface. Immediately after the warm water, rinse your hands in cold water, and rub with a Turkish towel they are absolutely dry, then use a drop of hand lotion or a little cold cream and dust off with talcum powder, your hands are never going to know it is winter.

GET USED TO IT
After the cleansing, wring out a cloth in hot water and go over your face with it, then follow with a cold spray. In the evening, just before you retire I advise a cleansing and an ice rub. This accustoms your skin to changes in temperature and tempers it to the wintry blasts.

If you have no ice, consider the snowball. However, wrap it in a towel before you introduce it to your skin, if it is sensitive.

For those with a tendency to large pores, I advise some astringent, such as witch hazel or one of the good commercial products, immediately after the warm water; this will close the pores.

of piercing eyes, darker and brighter than the pale eyes of the waxen-faced old man that the Lane family had come to like and respect.

A laudatory biography of the state's most prominent criminal lawyer, set in, black-face type, filled the rest of the space beneath the pictures and was continued on the second page, which was almost entirely devoted to the big story of the year. There were pictures of all the Clunys—Alexander and his wife and their daughter Eileen, away at school, and their son, Ralph the second, now assistant district attorney; Mrs. Seymour Albright, who had been born Alice Cluny. Mr. Albright, and their daughter Muriel. There also was a picture of bold-eyed, handsome Chris Wiley, and smaller reproductions of all the members of the luckless bridal party.

"No matter how innocent Cherry is, she's branded for life!" Jim Lane groaned and struck the paper. (To Be Continued)

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there's nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly. It soothes and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthmal.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or the money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Make Cozy Workroom of Your Kitchen

Have you an ideal kitchen? Would you like one? Do you dislike cooking? Perhaps it's because your work shop is inadequate or down-at-the-heel—so every time you go in you lose your self-respect. It is impossible to realize ideas unless room is made for them to materialize by clearing out the debris of unidealistic things. No matter how little or how much one has—that is the first step toward the kitchen ideal.

Go through every closet. Discard every old paper, worn-out dust rags, cracked dishes, dilapidated enamelware, broken stoves, ragged curtains and worn-out rugs. Make room for the new.

Perhaps you have visited the department stores and have longingly looked at the model kitchens—with their pretty painted walls and woodwork, and furniture to match.

USE PLAIN COLORS
Your walls may be dingy—your kitchen furniture of nondescript colors.

Take account of stock—how much money have you to spend in fixing up your most important room? If you have only $5—

Buy cold water paint for the walls and rent a brush to apply it from your painter. Choose a color that will make your kitchen look bright and gay.

Buy two shades of that new paint that doesn't show brush-marks—enough "to do" the woodwork, shelves, table, chair, window box, icebox and other furniture—don't forget the trash cans. You can get an artistic effect with the two colors. Be sure to paint inside the cupboard doors.

BORROW A LAD
The best time to work is in the evening—your husband and sons will help you—or borrow a neighbor's boy—our modern lads don't scorn an extra quarter now and then.

If the floor is bare, scrub, then oil it (the oil is 19 cents a bottle), and put down some small washable rugs where needed—these are from 10 cents up.

This will take a few evenings and cost perhaps $3.

Next, make fresh, washable sash curtains and little curtains that match, to line the glass doors of the dish closets; you may have old curtains that can be washed, tinted and re-made, or by shopping, you can find suitable materials at 10 cents a yard. Put up hooks as needed.

Then "bol" up all dingy utensils in water containing one tablespoon washing powder to the gallon. Put on new knobs as needed (these cost 5 cents a piece or less). Buy a few saucers, cake pans, spoons, and a measuring cup with a handle, two or three new dish towels, a knitted dish cloth and a 10-cent towel rack. CLEAN THE STOVE, ENAMEL SIDES ONLY

Make a wall pocket for dusts—one for cutlery, if drawers space is limited—another for paper and time. Faded chintz curtains can be used for this. Dip them in a darker tint and they will look like new. A bag for the ironing board, that matches should also be made and some new holders.

The $5 will be spent, but—You will have a shining, attractive room.

So Soft—So White

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Nearly every woman who sees them envious in my hands. They ask me how I keep them so soft, so white, so young.

They know that I travel all the time. My stage work encounters all sorts of grime and dirt. In most cities the water is hard. Yet the most sheltered women rarely have such hands. They never chafe.

The reason lies in a hand lotion perfected for me by great experts. I apply it whenever I wash my hands. It is not greasy or sticky. It disappears at once. And it overcomes all that grime does, all that soap does, all that grime does to the hands. Also all that weather does, all that the years do. My own hands form evidence supreme.

This hand lotion is now supplied by all toilet counters. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Hand Lotion. The price is 60c.

I urge you to try it. I think I have tried nearly everything of this kind, but nothing compares with this. A guarantee comes with it. Your dealer will return your money if it does not please. Go get it and see what it means to you.

Broken Threads

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE TO the home of PROF and MOLLIE ELWELL in Camdensville, Ind., one night in October, 1898, comes MARTHA DALTON, a nurse, bearing a woman who had been traveling.

Elwell is an artist. He has a son, JIM, aged 5. Late that night two girls are born to the woman, who dies without revealing her identity. Her sister indicates she is a person of wealth and refinement. The Elwells adopt the girls, 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been named MARGARET and ELIZABETH and nicknamed RUSTY and BETTY.

The United States enters the World War and Jim Elwell enlists with the first and awaits his call. The Elwells set a contract to turn out scenery for two Chicago theaters and Jim wires DICK CANFIELD, a friend, to come to help them.

Canfield comes, helps them turn out the job and after three weeks goes to join an aviation unit. Mobilization now begins in Camdensville.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY CHAPTER VII It was early in June when the call was issued to Camdensville's enlisted men.

During the days that followed time didn't just go along by any means. It flew by with a speed that fairly took the breath and gripped the hearts of the Elwell family.

And on the twins fell a sort of tragic calm, as if they had just awakened to the tragedy at hand and were resolved to bear it like the Spartan maidens of old.

The next to the last evening before Jim was to go away found him and Rusty and Betty in the Elwell parlor. Jim was stretched out in his customary pose on the sofa. But Rusty and Betty, both dressed alike in lavender-colored frocks, occupied a big leather chair. Betty half hidden in its depths and Rusty sitting on its cushioned arm.

It was reminiscent of that other evening in June, just a short year ago, when Jim had come in with the best-dressed man in the town and had demanded music to ease his sufferings.

This was the setting tonight when Prof and Mollie Elwell entered the room as the darkening shadows were falling. But gone was all the happy, joyous spirit of that other June evening. The hearts that had been in the peaceful breast of that little assemblage now were gripped with foreboding. In truth, from appearances, it might have been the night after a funeral in the house.

It was Rusty who broke the pall of silence with a low-spoken request. "Oh, sister," she began, with a little catch in her voice that was half a sob, "get your harp, will you, dear, and sing. When Other Tongues and Other Hearts? My heart is going to break anyhow, and it might as well break tonight."

Ordinarily optimistic people, it has been said, can on occasion get a sort of morbid enjoyment out of the most dolorous prospect. Perhaps Rusty was of that nature. And that, perhaps, was the reason why Prof Elwell brought Betty's harp from its place in the corner and stood it up in front of her. Probably, like Rusty, he felt that they might as well get the agony over with.

Mollie Elwell, in a darkened corner of the room, was silent, and Jim on his couch was in an agony of spirit. Elizabeth Elwell began to play. Softly, like the breathing tones of fairy music, the low notes of the little prelude to the old song fell on their ears.

"When other tongues and other hearts," their tales of love shall tell, In language whose excess imparts The power they feel so well; There may, perhaps, in such a scene, Some recollection be

Of days that have as happy been, Then you'll remember me, you'll remember, remember me. A sweet contralto voice died away in a low cadence of drifting melody, re-echoed by the little group. Then suddenly from one of the shadowy forms in lavender came a stifled, tearing sob.

Jim Elwell arose from the sofa and left the room. He walked blindly, feeling his way along out through the kitchen. At the door he paused and lifted his eyes toward the sky. "God!" he said softly, and then he walked to the woodshed, where he dropped down in a chair in a dark corner and cupped his chin in his hands.

He sat there for some minutes, staring at the shadowed floor. Then the sound of a footstep fell on his ear.

It failed to stir him at first, but another sound brought him to his feet. He looked up just in time to catch a fleeting glimpse of a lavender-colored dress where the moonbeams touched it as it crossed the yard. A moment passed, in which he stood thinking somberly; then he stepped across to the doorway.

From under the trees in the back yard came the sound of sobbing. Jim Elwell slipped quietly out and across the lawn, pausing under the shade of the maples.

Why, he thought rebelliously, did this have to happen? Why couldn't he, like his friend, Dick Canfield, be alone with no one to care too much if he never came back? Why?

The form of a girl became visible to his eye. Her head was buried in the hollow of her arms as they rested against the tree trunk. He was half-crying as he moved softly up behind her and placed his hands on her shoulders.

Then she turned around, but her face was hidden from the moon by the shadow of the great tree.

young dream that had so suddenly blossomed in his life.

How could it be possible, he thought, that he had gone on all these years without seeing it before? And to discover it on the eve, almost, of his going away, perhaps never to return. . . . The irony of it. . . .

And as he stood there thinking there came to Jim Elwell remembrance of many little incidents which at the time of their occurrence had seemed of no importance to him.

But now in the light of what he had learned this night he told himself he would rather cut off his right hand than take a chance of his other little pal being hurt. He was fully convinced now what he had done the right thing in exacting the promise. . . . The three of them would catch the morning train for Chicago. . . . He would telegraph Dick to meet them and—

TOWNSKAUKAUNA SCHOOLS EARN PRAISE FROM STATE SCHOOL HEADCallahan Commends School Board on Its Progressive Policies

Kaukauna—A letter from John Callahan, state superintendent of schools, was read at the meeting of the board of education Monday evening in the high school office. The letter commended on the fine program in the local schools. An inspector recently visited the schools here.

Mr. Callahan endorsed:

"First, the centralizing of the seventh and eighth grades to make possible some of the benefits which are possible in a regular high school. Second, the organization of the school below the junior high school as a unit, which allows the subjects in which they feel themselves the most proficient. Secondly, the employment in Kaukauna of a part time grade supervisor. Experience has shown that in a city the size of Kaukauna, it is necessary to have a capable person to supervise the regular teachers, to give constant detailed help which is necessary to stimulate grade teachers to give their highest service. It is practically impossible for a superintendent of schools to give the necessary study and time to the fine points of kindergarten and primary teaching which are necessary in order to give a constructive supervision. Therefore, I congratulate you upon having seen the wisdom and economy of providing this supervisory service for Kaukauna schools. Third, the fine spirit of cooperation toward supervision which was observed in all classes visited."

"Fourth, the effort which the teachers have made to render rooms attractive with seasonal decorations. Fifth, the especially fine janitor service in Nicolet school and adequate provision for fire protection. Sixth, a very fine basis in modern equipment and a definite program for enlarging that equipment. Seventh, provision for speech work in the grades. Eighth, the carrying on by the principal of a professional study with the teachers to help them to grow in service."

The letter offered these suggestions to increase the efficiency of the schools: "First, a study of the number of pupils assigned to the various teachers would indicate that it would be possible to adjust the grade another year so as to have 20 to 35 pupils assigned to a teacher. This should make it possible for the board of education to have funds available for the establishment of a special opportunity room. There is the available space and there are a number of children in the grades who are seriously handicapped in the regular grade work and causing undue waste. These children should be gathered together and taught by a person especially trained for that work. Special aid is given by the state for opportunity rooms. Second, it seems entirely feasible to lengthen the school day in grades 1 to 6 in order to make it possible to give a longer period to some of the subjects which need the extra time. Third, there should be a definite sum set aside for the purchase of standardized tests to be used at the discretion of the grade supervisor so that whenever need arises for their use in the diagnosis of special grade needs, they should be on hand. This does not require a large expenditure, but it is a necessary part of the school work today."

In concluding the letter Mr. Callahan said: "It gives me pleasure to know that your schools give promise of a growing, constructive program which will bring ever increasing returns to your city."

Mr. Arthur Jones was appointed by the school board to fill the unexpired term of George Seifert on the Industrial Board of Education. Mr. Seifert recently moved from the city and offered his resignation to the board at the last meeting. Mr. Seifert's term expires Jan. 1, 1928. R. M. Radsch and Joseph P. Jirkovic were reappointed to the board. Their terms expired Jan. 1, 1927.

The school board decided to send J. F. Cavanaugh, superintendent, to the national convention of superintendents at Dallas, Texas, the week of Feb. 20. A resolution was adopted requesting the superintendent to report three times a year on the condition of school activity funds.

The board voted $250 to the band to be used to buy the four instruments. Mr. Cavanaugh reported that the band was showing progress and that H. Orvill of the Holton Band Instrument Co., who is to instruct the organization for three months, would be in the city Monday to finish organization plans.

SKATERS SLOW IN ENTERING 1927 POST-CRESCENT MEET

Only Two Junior Entries Filed With Skate Editor With One Week Remaining

Bladesmen Urged to Get Entries in Early to Avoid Final Congestion

With only slightly more than a week left in which to get entries in for the Fifth Annual Appleton Post-Crescent Skating tournament to be held Sunday, Jan. 16, at Jones park, only two boys have entered the meet. Emmett Mortell, a junior, was the first entry and Leon Koosler, of the same class was the second. Entries close sharply at 6 o'clock on Thursday, Jan. 13 and the boy or girl who has failed to heed the time to get his or her entry in will be "outa luck" when it comes to racing for the beautiful gold medals and silver cups offered by the Post-Crescent.

Many of the skaters will probably wait until the last minute, but when that time comes some will forget and will rush in with their entries the next morning. Then it will be too late. The best time is to do it now, while you are thinking about it, and make sure of being in the meet. Just clip the coupon at the bottom of the sports page and send or bring it to the skating editor of the Post-Crescent and it will be off your mind until a few days before the races when your name and number for the day will be announced. The numbers will be given out at the editorial room of the Post-Crescent before the meet. Don't forget to get your entry in now.

In case of a last minute rush, the success of the meet is changed because of the hurry up work in the final few days, working with large numbers of entries. Therefore skaters of Appleton and vicinity can aid the Post-Crescent in making the races successful by not waiting until the last few days with entries.

The races are open to any boy or girl in Appleton and the Post-Crescent circulation area with no entry fee. Prizes are gold medals for first in every class, silver cups for the girls and mens' Champion races and another silver cup for high point winner in the mens' races, all donated by the Post-Crescent.

New Manager Says Cards Are Stronger Than 1926

St. Louis—Robert A. O'Farrell, as the new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, baseball champions, "is going to be one of the players," O'Farrell not only is going to be "one of the players," but he is going to be the silent type manager. There is nothing explosive or hysterical about Bob O'Farrell.

He expressed his appreciation to President Bredon for the opportunity to advance in his profession; he communicated with Rogers Hornsby before he officially accepted terms, informing his predecessor of the opening that was before him and in a way asked permission to become the new manager of the Cardinals.

SKELETONS OF TEN YEARS AGO VIEWED AT LANDIS SEANCE

38 Men Invited to Attend Meeting Wednesday to Probe Old Scandal

Chicago—(AP)—Many acceptances have been received by Commissioner K. M. Landis for the seance at 122 South Michigan Avenue Wednesday when Charles A. (Swede) Risberg will dangle before his former White Sox team mates and members of the Detroit Tigers the baseball skeletons of ten years ago.

Poking up the dead embers of the late weeks of the 1917 American League season is expected to cost organized baseball at least $20,000. Thirty-eight men have been asked to be present when Risberg materializes before them the ghost of a scandal.

Commissioner Landis' invitation to the ball players to appear at his office indicated that both the 1917 and 1919 scandal charges would be aired. "The commissioner will conduct a hearing," said his telegram to the players, "respecting charges of irregularity in connection with the Detroit-Chicago series, September 1917 and 1919."

Ty Cobb, whose departure from baseball at the end of last season was shadowed by charges of participating in a "fixed" game, is one of those who will face Risberg, although he was given a clean bill by "Swede."

Tris Speaker is not connected with the new scandal charges. Among those who were members of the White Sox or Tiger teams in 1917 and who up to Tuesday had not accepted the commissioner's invitation to appear when Risberg repeats his story of the alleged "sloughed" series, are:

Joe Jackson, Eddie Cicotte, Buck Weaver, Bill James, Oscar Stanage and Chick Gandil.

Gandil and Weaver have indicated their endorsement of Risberg's statements Gandil with the comment that Risberg didn't tell the half of it, and Weaver by nodding assent while Risberg was telling his story to the commissioner Saturday.

LEWIS BEATS BIG MUNN TO SETTLE MAT DISPUTE

Chicago—(AP)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis settled his two-year old dispute with Wayne Munn over the heavyweight wrestling title Monday night, taking two straight falls with a succession of crushing headlocks.

Munn, who two years ago tossed Lewis out of a Kansas City ring and claimed the championship when Lewis did not appear for the third and deciding fall, had Lewis in danger only once. He made Lewis tussle for almost an hour for the first fall but appeared hurt and lost the second in 12½ minutes.

The match in which Lewis' $10,000 diamond championship belt was at stake drew a record Chicago wrestling crowd of 10,000 and a gate of $225,000.

ILLINOIS LEADS LOOP BY WIN FROM GOPHERS

Chicago—Illinois has taken the lead in the Western Conference basketball race with a 27 to 13 victory over Minnesota at Minneapolis in the curtain raiser of the Big Ten cage season.

Four other conference teams played their last practice contests Monday night in preparation of the main leg away of next Saturday night.

Two of them, Chicago and Northwestern, fell before midwestern opponents, while Wisconsin and Ohio State were victors over eastern squads in two intercollegiate contests.

Iowa state took Chicago's measure 23 to 18 here, and Notre Dame trimmed Northwestern 27 to 21 on the Purple's home floor. Syracuse fell before Wisconsin 31 to 24 in a game played at Cleveland and Ohio State triumphed over Pittsburgh 48 to 23 at Columbus.

Indiana, one of the four strong teams which tied for the conference title last season and a strong prospect for the campaign, engages in its last preliminary against Carleton college at Bloomington Tuesday night.

FIGHTS HERE

PHIL ZWICK
Kaukauna's pride, who has lost but one fight in Florida and Ohio since leaving the Badger state last winter, Phil will meet Snake Aguinado, a former stablemate of Pancho Villa, in the windup of the first 1927 boxing show of the Appleton Athletic club about the middle of January at Armory G. The Kaw boy has built up a reputation by his work in Ohio that classifies him with the titles contenders in the featherweight class. He comes home to show his old backers his new tricks and the improvement in the last year.

BELOIT HAS 3 MIDWEST LEAGUE GAMES IN WEEK

Beloit—The Beloit college basketball team, defeated in its first two games by Oshkosh Normal, will open its home season Wednesday against Monmouth in a Midwest conference fray. Three veterans, Capt. John Vandolah, guard, and Fitzgerald and Varrigan, forwards, will be in the Beloit lineup. Friday the Beloiters will meet Cornell, conquerors of Minnesota, at Mount Vernon, Iowa, and on Saturday Coe college, which defeated Illinois, will be tackled at Cedar Rapids.

FILIPINO SURPRISES VETERAN JOE SANGOR

Milwaukee—(AP)—Joe Sangor, Milwaukee featherweight, was given a surprise in a ten-round bout here Monday night when he was held to a draw in the opinion of newspaper men by Johnny Hill, Filipino boxer.

Sangor scored a fluke knockout in the second round when he caught Hill high on the head with a right hand punch as the Filipino slipped. Hill regained his feet without taking a count.

Newspapermen gave Hill the first, third, fifth and seventh rounds and the second, fourth, eighth and ninth to Sangor. The sixth and tenth were scored as even. It was a stiff session throughout the entire ten rounds with both boxers punching hard in their efforts to land a knockout. In the semiwindup Howard Bentz, Milwaukee middleweight was credited with a shade victory over Emil Bakisic of Chicago.

Eddie Johnson of LaCrosse, stopped Ivan Blaetter in forty-five seconds. He knocked Blaetter down twice before the referee stopped the quarrel.

TUESDAY GAMES
Fox River vs Kimberly-Clark.
Galpin Hardware vs Co. D.

SATURDAY GAMES
Coated Paper vs Citizens Bank.
Kaukauna "Y" vs Riversides.

The big game of the year to date in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball league, the battle for an undisputed first place, will be held Tuesday evening at the "Y" gym when the Fox River Paper Co. squad with four wins clashes with the Kimberly crew which has but two wins, but no losses.

The loop leaders ship has been a tie between four, then three and then two teams, but now only one will occupy the peak for the first time this season.

With The K-C Athletics having a game the same night the Kimberly men are crippled and the Batzmen become favorites. A Kimberly win will put the Fox crew in a second-place tie, but a Fox win will shove the K-C men all the way to third below the Galpins who have won three and lost one. In the other game the strong Galpins, 1926 champs, should have little trouble whipping Co. D.

The Galpins will be handicapped by the absence of Zusman, guard and shooting ace, but Bloomer and Volk, missing for the last two weeks will be back in the fold as guards.

R FIRST 7 sport pt. 88mVWV. A loss for the Hardware will hold that team in third place while a win means second if the Fox Rivermen win and a tie for second if the K-C crew wins.

As Tuesday two good games are on tap with the Coated and Citizens crew mingling in a fourth place battle and the Kaw Y and Riversides playing the other tilt. The Conted men with two new Neenah stars in the lineup are favorites over the crippled Bankers and the Kawmen are favored to trip the Riversides if Algeo and St. Mitchell are playing.

TROJANS WAIL AS BIG STARS LEAVE CAMPUS

Los Angeles—Here is one school that has just reason to sing the blues. The University of Southern California loses 10 out of 21 letter men and those 10 comprise more nationally known figures than any other major university.

They are Captain Jeff Cruvath, Morton Kaer, Ted Gorrell, Manuel Laraneta, Morris Badgro, Allen Behrend, Ken Cox, Ernie Taylor, Field Thompson and Gene Dorsey.

Phil Zwick Of Kaukauna Will Fight Filipino Mit- Artist Here In January

Appleton A. C. Opens 1927 Card With Title Contender and Islander

Featuring Phil Zwick, stellar Kaukauna boxer who is making such a hit with fight fans of Ohio, and Snake Aguinado, star Filipino from Manila, the Appleton Athletic club will bring back into the state spotlight about the middle of January with a card of all-star bouts at Armory G. "Whitely" Berghausen, well-known Milwaukee sporting man, has been made match-maker of the club and he has arranged what looks like a big league windup which he will back up with a card of three other high class scraps.

Since the Kaukauna boy made such a great impression in Florida and Ohio in less than a year from the time he left the home hearthside, fans of this part of Wisconsin have been begging promoters to bring him back here to exhibit his newly-developed wares for the home folks. Zwick left Kaukauna last winter and was undefeated in several fights in Florida before moving north to Ohio. In the Buckeye state he won every fight but one, piling up an impressive record of knockouts and quick wins and putting himself in line for the crack title honors.

His loss was the only one in about the last 20 fights and was to a veteran who had beaten some of the best in the prime of his career. He was matched with Pal Moore, but Pal ran out of the match, according to Ohio sports writers. Phil's clean work and ability made a hit with his crowds and sent him from prelin to windup bouts. In Ohio he has made it clear that he wants to the show, so popular did he become.

In Aguinado the Kaw city lad will receive the best sort of a battle to test his new tricks as Snake, named for his slippery, dodging tactics which make him an especially hard mark to hit, was a stable mate of the late Pancho Villa, world's champion. He came to this country from Manila with an excellent record and has had a number of bouts since his arrival. Like all Filipinos he has been voted a great crowd pleaser.

Zwick is well-known to all valley fight fans and a large crowd will follow him to the ringside, especially from Kaukauna where the whole town should turn out en masse to root for him to send his dusky opponent into dreamland. Kaukauna is so enthusiastic about its coming title contender that it may even close the shops and declare a holiday to follow its favorite here. Zwick, once known as a brother of Jack, the sheik assassin, who created such a stir in Badger mid circles some years back, climbed to a fame on his own which equaled that of his brother. He is recognized as one of the leading featherweights of the middle west. He is a hard hitter and Aguinado follows his usual rushing style there is an excellent chance that the Kaw boy will win by a knockout.

"Whitely" has not completed his entire card but intends to use several Fox river valley and Milwaukee scrap-pers.

"We intend to run only high class shows," he said, "and will try to get the best talent available. Appleton is a good boxing town, and we hope to put the game back on its feet here."

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Jimmy King, New Orleans, won a technical knockout over Jimmy Cox, Memphis (1).

MEETING OF HIGH WATERS GROUP IS POSTPONED MONTH

Association to Convene at Oshkosh Jan. 11, Officers Report

Owing to the fact that copies of the Wolf river survey report would not be available, the annual meeting of the Association for Relief of High Waters, which was to have been held at Oshkosh last Tuesday, was postponed to Tuesday, Jan. 11. The postponement was requested by A. G. McCrorey, chief engineer of the agricultural department, Washington, D. C., who said that copies would not be available for the meeting.

The report, a synopsis of which has been received by directors of the association, emphasizes that the key to the flood situation in the Fox river valley lies in the building of reservoirs above Shawano. A reservoir, also it is suggested, as feasible at Leeman on the Wolf river, about 14 miles by water above Shiocton. The report will be read and explained at the coming meeting by Prof. E. R. Jones, chief drainage engineer of the state.

The coming meeting, according to officials, will be one of the most interesting ever held in Oshkosh. The matter of navigation on the upper Fox will be discussed.

It is entirely due to the efforts of the association that the total abandonment of the upper Fox river was prevented, it is claimed, and it is also due to the association that the waterway to the Gulf of Mexico, by way of Portage, will, in a few years, be a fact. The government is now actually engaged in building a water route through Oshkosh to the Gulf of Mexico by way of the upper Fox. This route will be navigable next year, it is believed, and will carry boats drawing four feet of water to travel from the Mississippi river to Green Bay, at least during the months of May and June.

Sick Man Refuses $25 For Medicine

"Adlerika is the only medicine for gas on the stomach. I never had so much relief from any medicine I ever took, and I would not take $25 for the relief one bottle of Adlerika gave me."
—H. L. Hicks.

Adlerika gives the system a REAL cleansing and brings out old poisons which may have caused trouble for a long time. Unlike most medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowels. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never thought was in your system and which caused sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In Appleton at Volgt's Drug Store and Other Druggists. adv.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPER CONTEST IS PLANNED

Madison—(AP)—Front page makeup, constructive editorials and farm news service will be the principal divisions in a contest which will be held here in February for county weekly newspapers of the state. The contest will be conducted in conjunction with the mid-winter meeting of the Wisconsin Press association and will be open to all of the weekly papers in the state. In order that weeklies, published in small communities, will have the same advantage as the papers from the large towns, the front page makeup class has been divided into three sections, the classification of which is based on the population of the town where the paper is published. They are (1) towns with a population less than 100; (2) towns between 100 and 1,500; and (3) towns having more than 1,500 population. This division does not affect either the community building editorial class or the farm news service, in both of which all the papers in the state will be on the same terms. Two issues of any paper, published during consecutive weeks in the present year, may be entered in any of the three classes. The entry in each class will be judged on the average excellence of the two issues.
